

WE NOMINATE

J. L. (Jake) McCandless, an eminently successful coach-teacher, who some 18 years after graduation from Princeton University has taken on one of the most challenging of all Princeton teaching assignments — successor to Richard W. Colman Jr. as 17th head coach of football on a campus which is deeply proud of its football traditions and yet sniffs suspiciously when it comes to the “hoop-la” involved in next September’s observance of the centennial of American football. This 39-year old Pennsylvanian, a trimly built triple-threat halfback during his undergraduate years, brings to his new post not only the understanding insights of his predecessor but also of the late Charles William Caldwell Jr.

It has long been a matter of record that Princeton at the turn of the 1950’s rose from the football depths — largely on the prowess of a Heisman Trophy winner and today a highly successful corporate executive, Richard William Kazmaier Jr. Possibly only a handful recalls that McCandless in both 1949 and 1950 understudied Kazmaier and in his senior fall (1950) in major victories threw scoring passes that were described by sports commentators as “coaches’ dreams.” In one romp-away Princeton victory, with Princeton leading with touchdowns to spare, McCandless was even critiqued by Caldwell “for not dropping the ball as he crossed the goal-line.”

A native of Beaver Falls, Pa. (“Joe Namath’s hometown”) and the son of one of Washington and Lee’s great all-around athletes, McCandless as a freshman carried off numerals in three branches of sport. He subsequently narrowed his athletic front and was graduated in June, 1951 — with Honors in the Department of Psychology and with determination to succeed as a teacher. He completed a year of work in Princeton’s Graduate School and in 1952 moved into the field of secondary education at the Saint Mark’s School, South-boro, Mass.

Three years at St. Mark’s, combining duties as head coach of basketball and assistant coach of football, led to The Kent School, Kent, Conn., where he introduced the Princeton (or Caldwell) version of the single-wing and produced eleven that lost exactly one game in three seasons. In addition to his assignments as teacher of English and History, he handled Kent’s varsity basketball team and also made time to hold forth as assistant director of athletics in a tradition-minded school which regularly sends eight-oared crews to the Royal Henley Regatta in England.

Appointed to the University’s coaching staff in 1958 as an assistant coach of football and as a teacher in the physical training program, he subsequently assumed direction of all freshman football, guided Princeton to the Ivy League basketball title in 1961 and in 1967 was named the University’s first “associate coach” of football, a title which prompted one columnist to note that “it’s good for Princeton to know he’s staying.” Some five weeks ago Colman was cited for his many positive contributions to the University, including “his foresight for having brought here and helped prepare such an extraordinarily fine successor as McCandless.”

For believing deeply in the significance of intercollegiate athletics in the changing, turbulent present; for knowing that the responsibilities of teacher, counselor and coach are one and the same; for looking to the future — and never dwelling in the past; he is TOWN TOPICS’ nominee as

DOGS TABBED

Until April. The dog ordinance will probably be voted on by Township Committee early in April.

It was tabled for study Monday night at 10 after some 250 people—including 40 or more children—waited it and chatted it and scrapped over it for almost two hours.

"We're going to be damned if we do and damned if we don't," observed Mayor John D. Wallace philosophically at the end of the public hearing.

He scanned one of the informal tallies presented to the committee and then said to the Community Park School audience.

"This gives you an idea of the problem Committee has: in this survey of houses chosen at random, 29 want no leash law at all; 17 want a full leash law; 10 want dogs controlled during school hours only, and 11 are neutral."

Don't Fence Me In. Whoever the 11 neutral ones are, they stayed home Monday night. Dog meetings in the Township tend to be loaded on one side or another, and Monday's audience was mostly anti-ordinance.

The Barker outside the main tent was a wistful Bassett hound wearing a sign which read, "Don't Fence Me In."

Children milled around outside the school and in the lobby, presented to Mayor Wallace a couple of don't-fence-me-in petitions and told Committee that the children aren't afraid of dogs; it's parents who think a dog will bite.

It was learned after the meeting that a flyer from the S.D.S.—Students for a Dog Society—had been distributed in the Littlebrook School area, urging young Township residents to converge on Community Park for the meeting.

The printed flyer showed Snoopy, the Peanuts cartoon dog, leashed and imprisoned in a bird-cage.

New Proposals. Edwin Hutter, Von Dyke Road, started things off by citing a petition bearing the signatures of 1,500 people who don't want the ordinance as it now stands.

Mr. Hutter told Committee sternly to pay "strict attention to the points I have written." He proposed dog control by June of this year. By that time, he predicts, major dog offenders will have been cleared off the school grounds and

THE FACE IS FAMILIAR: It's the principal of Princeton High School, on a poster announcing the Kenneth E. Michael Scholarship Fund. Suggested by the freshman class, it's been started by Student Council with Council member Harold J. Logan acting as Fund Chairman. A student faculty-administration committee working with the P.T.A. Scholarship Fund, will give awards to the senior "who best demonstrates the qualities for which Mr. Michael is loved and admired: warmth, understanding, humanity and ability to bridge the gaps between people that threaten the existence of the world." Contributions should be made out to the Kenneth E. Michael Fund and mailed to P.H.S.

that aspects of the problem will have diminished.

In addition, he asks seven day-a-week, full-time dog oficers on duty 8 to 5, 8 to 8 in the summer; dog bites certified as bites by a doctor; and a dog owner warned, after the second bite, that a third bite may result in banishment of the dog.

He advises the Township to draw up a special form people can fill out if they have problems with a neighbor's dog, thereby by-passing the touchy question of neighbor relations, and he suggests that dog owners be warned of all the penalties when they take out a dog license.

The failure of some residents to be responsible dog owners is the root of the whole problem, Mr. Commage, and he warned that the new ordinance is unenforceable.

"The issue is largely a manufactured one," charged K. Dexter Miller, 474 Brookstone Drive, "because neighbors haven't the courage to tell each other when dogs misbehave."

"The problem may exist in some parts of the community, but the ordinance simply doesn't make sense in other parts," Mr. Miller added.

Mrs. Jessie Matthey, The Great Road, presented a petition asking restraint only during school hours, coupled with strict enforcement of the present ordinance.

She told Committee a check of her signatures with those of a total-restraint petition completed some months ago showed that those in favor of total restraint live mostly in the areas around Riverside and Littlebrook Schools, on Jefferson Road near the Borough and in "University territory."

Those opposed to the new ordinance, she reported, lived on the perimeter of the Township, especially in its western section, and around Herron Town Road. She added that some people refused to sign her petition because they "didn't want dogs restrained at all."

"You don't go around counting heads when people have been injured," said one voice from the audience, "no matter how small the number; people have a right to protection."

Other Problems? "Dogs on school grounds are only one aspect of the problem," stated A. Cyrus Ward, 98 Olden Lane. "There is harassment of

SOS PLANS MEETING
On University Facilities Use
The Students for a Democratic Society have announced a meeting at 7:18 Thursday in the basement of the Youth Center, to discuss the demand for Princeton University facilities being open to the community.

A leaflet being circulated on campus Tuesday by SDS members cited a recent incident involving black youths from town, Borough Police and University proctors. One of the youths, Jerome McGowan, was convicted of assault and using profane language after he allegedly refused to comply with a proctor's request to leave the Center, and became involved in a scuffle with him.

SDS argues that McGowan and the other black youths were the guests of students and should have been left alone. In the leaflet it bitterly censures all authorities involved in the case, including the University, Borough Police,
and the Borough magistrate Theodore T. Tans Jr., whose conduct it labels "hazily racist."

"Why are members of the community not permitted to use the University's facilities," SDS questions. "Why have they often been kicked out of the gym and the student center and other buildings that were erected through the sweat of their fathers and are now staffed and maintained by their brothers and sisters?"

The leaflet also cites several "racist actions by both the Princeton administration and the town bosses," including black students being stopped on campus and forced to show identification; black students on Nassau Street constantly harassed by police for loitering; white youths are ignored, and sentences for arrested black youths almost always being higher than for whites.

In a stirring conclusion, the leaflet states: "It is in the interests of both the students and the working people of the Princeton community to unite against this sort of oppression, whether it occurs on the campus, in the community or in South Africa. We must not let the administration divide black and white students, and workers, for it is only by working together that we can fight to defeat the racist bosses of this town and University."

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting and contribute opinions. For further information call Bob Nerenberg, 241-1868, or Bill Tucker, 452-8592.

TWO STUDENTS ASSAULTED
On Campus, Two Princeton University students were assaulted early Sunday morning in separate incidents on campus as they were walking between McCosh and Murray-Dodge Halls.

"This happens on campus almost every weekend in the same location," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

At 1:40 a.m., James Pitney, 352 Witherspoon Hall, told police at Borough headquarters that he had been jumped by three Negro males who punched him in the face, knocked him to the ground and took his wallet. He described one of his attackers as 6'3, the other two medium height. He valued his watch at between $30 and $40.

Mr. Pitney also told police that another student had been assaulted a few minutes before he had. Detective John J.
Bellow went to the campus
and investigated.

Detective Bellow reported that Michael Dieffenbach of 233 Lockhart Hall had been assaulted around 1:20 while he was walking near Murray-Dodge. He told Detective Bellow that he had been approached by three Negroes who told him they had just come from Harlem and needed money.

When he told them he had no money, he continued, they assaulted him and took his watch. Mr. Dieffenbach added that three men when someone came to his rescue.

Police searched the area in the direction the three had fled but were unable to find the sus-

Chief McCrohan.

He added that the police do not station men on campus

the University. "We haven't received any requests," he said.

P.C.H. TO COUNCIL
Middle-income Housing
Princeton Community Housing,
Inc., will probably go before Borough Council next Tuesday night to talk about the facts and figures of middle-income housing.

P.C.H. needs informal Borough Council approval of this particular stage of its plans in order to obtain the next package of planning money—so-called "seed money"—from the state.

It is understood that at least two Councilmen oppose present P.C.H. plans and would probably vote against approval. Two others are said to be in favor, and the remaining two undecided.

At the organizational meeting of the new citizens advisory group for middle-income housing last Wednesday, Daniel Mager was chosen pro-tem chairman. All those selected were named on a temporary basis, probably until a more formal organizational meeting at the First Baptist Church later in March. The date will be announced.

Mrs. Mary Jane Schomp was chosen secretary and three sub-committees and their chairmen were named. Michael Rockland will be chairman of a committee on site development; Miss Patricia Letom
chairman of a tenant selection and participation committee; and Mr. Mager chairman of a committee on construction.

LEGAL AID TO BEGIN

At Part-time Office, The Mercer County Legal Aid Society will open a part-time branch in the Princeton Youth Center, 102 Witherspoon Street, starting next Monday.

The office, located at the Green Street entrance of the building, will be open from 1 to 5 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Staff attorneys will be available to discuss landlord-tenant problems, consumer complaints, domestic relations, welfare and other problems.

According to Steve Hunter,
the Princeton University student who will do preliminary interviewing on Mondays and Wednesdays, the service is open by state law to individuals whose income is $3000 or less with one dependent. An additional $50 is allowed, he said, for each additional dependent.

The Legal Aid Society will be sharing an office with the League of Women Voters in an adjacent room will be the new Civil Rights Commission.

JUVENILE IS CHARGED

With Student Extortion. A 17-year-old, whom Borough police describe as a recent Princeton High School dropout, has been charged with juvenile delinquency, to wit that he attempted to extort money from six several high school students.

The youth was arrested Friday by Borough Juvenile Officer Thomas J. Proccacchio.
According to police, the youth was observed by a teacher at the high school attempting to extort money from two ninth-grade boys near the school auditorium. He was released in the custody of his parents.

Chief Peter J. McCrohan
commented that the problem was "prevalent in high schools
all over the country."

ROAD PLANS HEARD

Declined Later. "People suddenly become conservationists when the road goes through their backyard."

Thomas Sutherland, speaking for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, caught the tone of the three-hour-long public hearing on the Township's Road Master Plan Tuesday night.

The Township Planning Board will consider the comments, petitions and letters and announce at its regular meeting next Monday at 8 p.m., in Township Hall, what progress has been made, toward approving or modifying the plan.

The Planning Board has re-routed the western part of the Loop Road so that none of it lies in the flood plain of Stony Brook and laid it down so that it utilizes a segment of Province Line Road immediately south of the Rosedale intersection.

This would mean widening that part of Province Line and it brought prompt, frequently heated objection from Lawrence Township residents who live on the Lawrence side of Province Line, planning board members, the professional planning consultant, members of Lawrence's Township Committee and the Mayor.

Lawrence thinks the realignment, created by the concept—the road is designed to serve Princeton residents—to a regional concept, producing a road which could funnel motorists out of Princeton Township and into Lawrence.

However, Joseph Della Paze, chairman of the Lawrence Township Planning Board, emphasized that his board was not suggesting that the Loop Road go along the Stony Brook flood plain. "It's a beautiful there," he said, "I used to swim and hunt and ride horses along the brook when I was a boy."

Co-operation. The extent of cooperation between Lawrence and Princeton Townships was evaluated frequently during the evening. Princeton Township speakers referred to the Squibb zoning, over which Princeton went to court with Lawrence.

In turn, Mayor Daniel Williams of Lawrence read a resolution passed by his municipality's Committee "strenuously objecting" to the road plans and charging the Princeton Township Planning Board with "improper planning" and "violating sound concepts of regional planning," which are almost the same words Princeton had used about Lawrence in the Squibb case.

Mr. Della Paze suggested the two Townships meet with Princeton Borough and Mercer County planners to discuss the whole problem of roads that cross lines.

William Flagg, on the Princeton side of Province Line, pointed to the southern sag of the Loop Road, where the plan has been drawn to four-lane width as it dips through West Windsor, and suggested it be better to meet a re-aligned Province Line in Lawrence Township.

Such a re-routing, Mr. Flagg said, would accommodate traffic from the new Squibb on Province Line, and from Educational Testing Service on Rosedale.

Cherry Valley. Up north, the proposed Road Master Plan retains Cherry Valley as a "primary" road. It will intersect with I-95 at Mt. Rose. It will also take traffic, the Planning Board said, from the 129 acres in Hopewell Township where Mobil plans to move its entire research and customer service operations from Brooklyn. It is expected that Mobil will be all moved in two years' time, the board stated.

Board members warn home-builders on Cherry Valley to get their houses back far enough to be protected from a traffic flow along Cherry Valley which could quadruple in the next 20 years.

Richard Holsington, of Cherry Valley Road, said the Township's road system should channel traffic toward Route One where the action will be in the next few years, not merely around and around Princeton.

Andrew Huston, 79 Hun Road, offered a petition from 200 property owners urging elimination of the Loop segment between Rosedale and Mercer Roads as a conservation measure, with establishment of a possible park along the stream.

The segment is only a dotted line—the so-called "K" line on the map—since the main "C" loop has been moved out of the flood plain.

James Sayen, chairman of the Open Space Commission, asked that the "K" route between Rosedale and Mercer be wiped off the map altogether, and the loop plan "kept for the benefit of all citizens and not just a few."

Mrs. J. Merrill Knapp, Rosedale Lane, suggested elimination on the map of the entire northern arc of the Loop Road, at least until 1991 and the 92-A by-pass are built.

Hans K. Sander, Planning Board chairman, announced four projects for 1969: extending Herrontown from Mt. Lucas to Route 206; re-aligning Cherry Valley to ease out two bad curves; widening Guyot between Evans and Linden and Linking Terhune-Van Dyke segments in the Shady Brook area, closing part of the Loop Road.

The Shady Brook link was greeted by Mrs. A. Rosenthal of 318 Dods Lane as a traffic hazard for children.

BACK TO DRAWING BOARD Or to File Cabinet? The Princeton Shopping Center doesn't acknowledge the jurisdiction of either the Township's site plan review board or the Township Planning Board when it comes to that new A & P and the Hamberger's additions the Center has been talking about for so long.

The Center's position was made known to the Township Planning Board in a letter from Pitney, Hardin and Kipp, Newark lawyers for George Warnecke, who owns the Center.

Tuesday night after the public hearing on the Road Master Plan, the Township Planning Board heard the latest chapter in the Shopping Center story.

Mr. Warnecke submitted some plans when he applied not long ago to W. Joseph Shinn, zoning officer and building permit officer. The plans were for a fashion show at 1 p.m. next Thursday, March 13, at the YWCA, featuring fashions by Clayton of Palmer Square. ing inspector, for a new building permit.

Before a permit can be issued, plans have to be submitted to the site plan review board. The new plans turned out to be the old 1966 plans, submitted when the Township successfully asked the Zoning Board for parking and floor area variances.

Since those 1966 plans, many suggestions and alterations have been made in traffic flow, patterns, parking, lighting and so on. Looking over the three-year-old plans, site plan review members found, once again, that the site isn't big enough for pedestrian and cars. The Planning Board decided to table the matter until next Monday night.

INTEREST RATE RAIKED BY Township. Princeton Township's municipal budget will be open to public hearing on March 17, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Last Monday night, before the meeting went to the dogs, Committee passed a resolution raising the interest rate on delinquent taxes from 6% to 6½—the maximum allowable rate under state law. The new rate is effective immediately, and will probably be reflected in May tax bills.

Committeeman William L. Wilson commented that, with commercial bank loans going for 7%, the delinquent taxpayer who has been paying the Township only 6% has been getting quite a break.

Bids for the two-section Overbrook Drive sewer were awarded to Ken Conover & Company. The eastern part, $161,800, the western section, $5,163.30. The company's bids were markedly lower than the other four bidders and Township Engineer Frank Quinly suggested, when Committee members asked why, that it might be due to the firm's non-union status.

An ordinance including Carabin Place in Garbage District Two was introduced Public hearing March 17.

BRIDGE WORK TO START At Kingston Span, the new Kingston Bridge and its approaches may be completed by June of next year.

Transportation Commissioner David J. Goldberg has announced that bids on realigning Route 27 at the bridge will be received March 20. He expects construction to take 15 months.

While construction is under way, traffic will proceed as usual along Route 27 (the Princeton-Kingston Road); however, motorists on River Road will have to detour. The present old bridge will be retained, but flanked by New bridges over the Millstone River and the Delaware and Raritan Canal will be built. The realignments will start in Princeton Township on Route 27 about 500 feet from River Road. On the Kingston Side, they will extend about 2,300 feet to Lakeside Avenue, according to Mr. Goldberg.

ZONERS SAY YES TO GYM
No To YMCA Social Wing. The Borough Zoning Board last week granted half a loaf to the Princeton YM YWCA.

It granted the Y a conditional use permit, and one side-yard variance not to go to 16 feet to erect an athletic unit on the north side of its building.

ing housing the swimming pool. In addition to a gym, the building will also contain a health club under the gym and hand ball and squash courts to the right of the pool area.

However, the board denied, without prejudice, the Y's application to build a one-story, 7,200 square foot wing 11 feet wide, located at right angles, west and north, of the present social building. Both have been made in traffic flow patterns, parking, lighting and so on.

The board ruled the Y, in the case of its proposed social building, had not given any persuasive reasons why the variances—ranging from 17 to 36 feet—should be granted. It was the board's added belief that the Y didn't investigate alternate possibilities to the extent it should have.

By denying the application without prejudice, the board left the door open for the Y to appear again with new plans or new evidence.

The proposed north wall of the social addition would have come within 14 feet of the property line of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bramwell, 77 Bayard Lane. It was this, more than anything, that bothered the board. "After all, in a 50-foot variance requirement, a 36-foot variance is quite a variance," observed a board member Norman Williams.

Had the Y considered the possible purchase of the Bramwell property? asked the board. "We have been discussing this with the Bramwells for more than five years," answered Ralph Musau, chairman of the YMCA fund drive.

"Unfortunately, Mr. Bramwell has not seen fit to reach an understanding with us, at this juncture."

Why Out Instead of Up? Repeatedly the board probed to try to find out why the Y felt it had to build out along Bayard Lane rather than construct a shorter, conforming two-story addition. When it was mentioned that the existing 10,900 square-foot social building was designed to carry another floor, board member Charles St. John pointed out: "By putting a second story on the existing structure, you would be gaining ten thousand square feet as compared to seven thousand."

James Lowell, manager of the Eastern Office of the Building and Furnishing Service of the National Council of Y's, explained the Y's position.

The main reason, he said, was for control. The entire end of the proposed wing would contain a nursery for pre-school children. "The necessary control and supervision of these children," Mr. Lowell said, should be a "visual relationship" which would be lost in a two-story structure.

It would also be "considerably more costly to build," said the interjected architect Philip Collins.

"Did you consider Princeton zoning laws when you designed this?" asked board secretary Bernard Glover, who added, "We may be prejudiced, but we would think someone who wishes to develop something like this would have considered zoning."

"The planner was done before the 36-foot zoning requirement (November, 1968) went into effect," replied Mr. Lo-

Spring's Her Thing
I'm tired of rhymes
That go with snow.
A rhyme for fun
Is much more fun!

Trouble is, apparently, that the snow doesn't relieve it rhymes with "go." The welcome sunshine that finally appeared this week will be with us a little while longer. After that comes the weekend, and the last four Sundays have brought snow.

This weekend? Well, snow is again a possibility. The Man reported, and no one will until Monday whether it will be five in a row or not.

Membership at the Princeton YMCA has grown from 1,942 in 1957, when the present building was built, to more than 7,000 today. Yearly attendance in the same period has jumped from 49,000 to an estimated 269,000.

The Y was represented by attorney Gordon C. Strauss.

Residue Rooms Ahead? Why the Y was taken over by Mr. St. John's proposal that they build above the present social building was revealed by Mr. Lowell. He reported that any future second floor addition was proposed to be a residence, not a dormitory. "We are not considering building such a residence floor at the present time," he added.

"Residence rooms are in demand," commented Frank Clark, general secretary of the Y. "It's costing us $60,000 a year to operate this building; these new buildings will double that amount. We've got to find new ways to raise money. Residence rooms are a future means of income support."

TENNENBERG LOSES LICENSE
For Drunken Driving. An 18-year-old Cranbury driver had her license revoked for six months in Borough Court Monday for drunken driving.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. also fined Miss Tanya A. Metz $75 and $5 court costs. She was given a summons by Ptl. James Agins, after she hit a parked car on Nassau Street early in the morning of February 21.

Speeding cost Dorothy R. Werner, 21, 42 Jefferson Road, $18, and Jay Ross, 17, of Skillman $20. Paying fines of $15 each were Denotes T. Jones, 36, 16 Euclid Avenue, Kingston, careless driving, and Roger Brees, 31, Griggstown Road Belle Mead, late inspection.

Frank Watz, 73, 95 Linden Lane, paid $12 for a stop sign infraction. In a motor vehicle charge, Arthur L. Wright, 17, S. Jefferson Court, was fined $10 for throwing snowballs from a car.

JETPORT SITES EYED

A second potential site near Princeton for a jetport serving the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area was thrust into the news this week when residents of the Roosevelt-Edinburg-Allestown area were among those picketing a legislative hearing in Trenton.

While several informed sources here said that they felt the residents' concern was premature, Frank Herman of Roosevelt expressed belief that the rural area bisected by the Mercer-Monmouth county line was in danger of being removed from future use as a residential community. "These are the 74's they are planning for," Mr. Herman said, "and you can imagine what that would mean to anyone living within the designated location." He reported that an area 30 square miles near Allestown is understood to be the latest location for a jetport to ease the steadily-mounting congestion at Newark, LaGuardia and Kennedy International.

Princetonians have for some months been watching progress on the possible selection of an other site within ten miles of town as the jets fly. Solberg reports in Hunterdon County is among several sites which have been under consideration lodged in land east of here near Roosevelt and Allestown, and the approaches to a jetport in the southern portion of Hunterdon would undoubtedly have a distinct effect on hundreds of homes in the north west section of the Princeton area.

Tuesday's hearings in Trenton were called by a legislative committee to consider what

Appeal Brings Gifts To Aid Henry Schultz

Eight people have contributed $300 so far to a fund set up to pay for a private room in a nursing home for Henry Schultz, Princeton's blind Santa Claus.

Letters went out early this week appealing for funds, according to Mrs. Mabel C. Morgan Jr. The $300 came from an announcement of the appeal made in last week's TOWN TOPICS. The Princeton Chamber of Commerce is administering the money and contributions should be sent to the Chamber, 44 Nassau.

Steps should be taken to create a fourth metropolitan airport and where it should be built. It was that session which drew pickets from Monmouth County, some wearing gas masks to protest air pollution and car pools to warn of the decibel potential.

Javits Bill Introduced, Tuesday in Washington. The bill, by Sen. Jacob Javits (R., N.Y.) requiring states to create jetport authorities. The proposed legislation also provides for federal funds assisting in the construction of major jetports and satellite airports.

There has been conflict over proposed sites for a fourth jetport for more than a decade. The Governor's Evaluation Committee for an Intercontinental Jetport for New Jersey favors Maguire Air Force Base, Lakehurst Naval Air Station or Allestown, but the Port of New York Authority and the major airlines oppose those locations and back Solberg in Hunterdon County.

With such pressure for sites other than a location near Roosevelt, that area may not be in imminent danger. In all, there are nearly a score which have been mentioned as possibilities. Nonetheless, opposition in Roosevelt is building and Mr. Herman has asked those interested in working to block a jetport to write to him in care of the Civic Action Committee, Roosevelt, N. J.

GOVERNMENT STATES POLICY

On University Investments, President Robert F. Goheen has reaffirmed Princeton University's basic investment policy with regard to companies doing business in South Africa.

Speaking before an overflow crowd in Alexander Hall Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Goheen said the University could not follow the specific course of action advocated by the United Front. He pointed out that the selling of securities of companies on the "designated list" (which includes such firms as Xerox, IBM, and Johnson &

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Robert W. Wilde hope for 14 contributors who will pledge $5 a month to pay the extra $70 required to give Mr. Schultz a private room. "Santa Claus" now shares a room with three other men, all of whom have their sight. They rely on TV; he relies on his radio, and he needs privacy so that he can play the radio or type on his typewriter whenever he wants to without bothering the other men.

Johnson) would be wrong for two major reasons:

First, as the Maillet report stated, the apartheid policy in force in South Africa would not be significantly affected by such action, and second, the loss in income of $3.5 million would greatly weaken Princeton's capacity to carry on and extend its teaching programs, research and student aid.

Dr. Goheen also said the University could not accept the demand that it refuse monies and bequests which may derive from profits made primarily in South Africa.

Some Concessions Made. However, in a move to accede somewhat to the pressure of the United Front (and ominous threats of action by its members), Dr. Goheen announced that the University would not hold securities in companies which do a primary amount of their economic activity in South Africa.

Secondly, he reported that with the help of the trustees, he intended to "convey to the managements of companies doing business in South Africa the deep concerns felt by so many of our students, faculty and administration over the whole question of apartheid."

In addition, Dr. Goheen said that members of the administration and the board were prepared to assist in opening doors for student and faculty groups interested in making presentations to corporate management on the issue.

Composed mainly of students, the audience listened in silence to Dr. Goheen's remarks, with the exception of a few profanities uttered at one point during his speech when he spoke of the notably progressive policies pursued by some firms on the "designated list." However, he received strong applause from the majority at the conclusion of the meeting.

Black Studies I, ROTC out. In related actions, the faculty voted at a meeting Monday to "remove instruction offered by ROTC from the normal requirements leading to a baccalaureate degree." The use of ROTC grades in determining academic standing will be dropped; the ROTC unit commander will have his title changed from "Professor" to "Visiting Lecturer with the rank of Professor"; and ROTC will be a program and not a department.

The faculty also gave its assent to an undergraduate program in Afro-American studies, and both undergraduate and graduate programs in African Studies. All three programs would build upon courses now offered by existing academic departments of the University, plus new courses and seminars in the Afro-American Studies program.

CARRINGTON RESIGNS. From Youth Associates, The Rev. G. Rogers Carrington, executive director of Youth Associates, Inc., resigned Friday to work in a state-wide project on youth leadership development. Rogers Uittenbogard, a senior at Princeton Theological Seminary who has been a staff member of Youth Associates since last September, succeeds him, with the title of "program coordinator."

"I am changing jobs, primarily because I cannot disvelop the base I feel is necessary for training large numbers of youth workers within the limited financial structure of Youth Associates," the Rev. Mr. Carrington, known as "Toot" to most of Princeton youth, said in a letter sent Saturday. —Continued on Page 7

Cars, Dogs and Finally People.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Man's Best Friend?

We like animals and nature and all those good things too, and we've read "Lassie" and "Lad, a Dog." We have also been dog owners and loved our own dogs. But we've also read "White Fang" and "Call of the Wild" and had a series of experiences which indicate that there is another side to the dog story.

One of the undersigned's whole family (including several children) recently was forced to undergo 14 days of painful anti-rabies shots in the stomach. We wonder how many dog owners have had those shots!

Another of the undersigned nearly had his call torn away by a dog while walking along with someone else. At home, our own business (not owners should be able to molest any dog, to be sure), another of us cannot take out having to carry a heavy stick to ward off the packs of laws to make sure that people dogs which, like wolves, men are him and his children.

One of our associates was, while riding his bicycle down the street near his house, chased by a snarling, snapping dog which caused him to fall off his bike and break his hand. Another of us has to keep his children inside the house from time to time because of a large, "overfriendly" dog which is constantly jumping on them, tearing and muddying their clothes, knocking them down, and generally terrifying them.

This same person has to constantly clean his small yard of his neighbor's (?) dog's excreta to keep his baby from playing in it or eating it. A year ago, while one of us was in Washington, a dog killed two small children and mutilated a third. And this was a "pet," with a tag around his neck, not a wild dog.

Dogs are nice, but they're not necessarily man's best friend. And sometimes they can be his enemy. At the same time, owners should be able to molest any dog, to be sure, another of us cannot take out having to carry a heavy stick to ward off the packs of laws to make sure that people are first in this town. The way we see it right now, it's cars (first, dogs second, and people running a poor third.

TOWNSHIP will make every effort, based on space limitations, to publish up to 500 words of any letter on a subject directly affecting the Princeton area. Because of the volume of news which must be covered at the community level, letters on topics of a national or international nature cannot be considered.

Editor's Note. The letter was signed by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rockland, 8 Madison Street; Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hooton, 231 Snowden Lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Glucksberg, 11 Aiken Avenue, who report that they constitute the Princeton Society for Making the Town Safe and Pleasant for People.

Dog License Plates.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
All this flap about leashing up everybody's poor little old dog may strike one as pretty small-town potatoes, but one's own child is attacked on the school playground which is what prompts me to write this letter.

History records that when another generation was faced with a similar question whether to leash up the horseless carriage or permit it to run amok, a sensible compromise was reached to enable the transgressors to be readily identified by the use of large numbers easily read from a distance, a practice which obtains to this day.

When you think about it, it wouldn't be such a bad idea in the case of what used to be man's best friend either.

Alternative to Dog Walking.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
It seems to me that we dog lovers are making too much fuss about reasonable requirements for community living. If we all lived on farms, it would be different, but when we band together to have the advantages of schools, library, shops, paved streets etc., we must be willing to accept certain restraints like traffic lights, parking meters. So must our pets.

The "dog trolley" idea is simple and relatively inexpensive. Our dogs can be outdoors even when we haven't time to walk them.

Heavy dog trolleys at Noah's Ark cost $5.00 and include fifty feet of wire, pulley and two crows to put into porch, house, garage etc. Runner chains cost $3, and shoulder harness $3.5. If you prefer to put the trolley between trees, heavy wire cost about $1.70 per fifty feet and Rosedale Mills has pieces of heavy plastic tubing or rubber hose for about $.75, to protect the trees.

All of this costs less than fencing, preserves our open look and our evergreens (so quickly damaged by dog urine) and most important of all, prevents injury to young and old alike at any time of day.

Dogs Prevent Burglaries.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I think the dogs and people in the Township are lucky not to have the dogs leashed or tied up constantly. Think how many robberies there would be if the dogs were tied up!

My neighbors had a party two years ago and at around 7 o'clock, a thief came into the house and stole all the purses in the hall, which was next to the room the guests were in. The thief started coming toward our house and our dog went wild barking.

He chased the thief away and down into the brook below us.

Dropping the purses, the frightened thief ran away.

Our neighbors on the other side of our house feed him so he will watch their house, too! Our dog is a loyal, friendly, watch dog and so are many other dogs.

I think it would be a nuisance to tie the dogs up. Would you like to be tied up constantly? Or would you like to be tied up when trouble has aroused?

Ordinance Needs Enforcement.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I was interested to read that the land fill permit issued to H. G. Houghton & Sons has been revoked and that existing fill must be removed from the flood plain by April.

Too many of New Jersey's water ways have been abused by allowing flood plains to be filled. The level of flooding in this particular section of the State may well rise with its rapid growth in population.

With this growth, rivers and streams must accept and contain an increased burden of sewage effluent and the drainage from new gutters, roads, parking lots, etc. If the flood plains act as natural flood controls allowing high water to spread out and slow down, without room to function naturally, the flooding situation can become uncontrollable.

Princeton Township has a flood plain ordinance. I think it should be strictly enforced.

If one construction were to be allowed, others would sure follow. Then there would be a useless law with nothing left to protect.

Skillman School Offers Boys New Life for Old

About 40 disturbed boys between the ages of eight and 13 have moved into the state's new Training School for Boys, located in Skillman across the road from the Neuropsychiatric Institute.

The sleek modern school built for an estimated 200 boys, has been open for about three months. Reaction from the neighbors was negative at first; after all, this is a correctional institution, and boys are sent here by the courts for stealing, truanting, or truancy. And, as Alfred Vuocolo, the school's superintendent says, "We know all shy away from people who seem to be going against the community—antisocial."

But the welcome has grown warmer with each month that passes. Already Training School boys have bonded along on a Boy Scout hike. They have gobbled birthday cakes kept in perpetual supply at the school by the ladies of the Blawenburg Reformed Church.

They have been to Sunday dinner in private homes. They have been to Princeton High and Princeton Day School athletic events. And, they hope, this summer, to play Little League baseball with boys in nearby towns.

Catch Them Young. The Training School was established because statistics at Jamesburg, the state reformatory, showed that 30% of the boys were sent back to the reformatory sooner or later, and three out of the 183 are recidivists.

These younger ones, experts found, have more emotional disturbances, more physical handicaps, more in the way of disadvantaged environment or destructive home life. Also at Jamesburg, the little ones tended to look up to and imitate the older, more sophisticated boys and this only increased the chances that the young would eventually be sent back.

No boy is sent to the new school if he's ever been in a state correctional institution before, but this doesn't mean he hasn't had institutional experience.

He may have been in a private psychiatric clinic, or perhaps in a private "home," like Bonnie Brake. And almost every boy is very well known to the juvenile courts.

Boys are sent here from all over the state: Atlantic City or Cape May, or the in-

Can You Help?

The new State Training School for Boys at Skillman has room for volunteer help.

If you can play a guitar, you might sign up for Sunday morning services at 9 a.m., and lead the boys in singing.

The school needs a piano, but is not allowed, by state law, to solicit for one.

Groups of young people who could give the boys the youngsters, or join them in a swimming meet in the big pool, would be welcomed according to Mr. Edward Gryzbek, of Princeton's Council of Community Services.

A crafts teacher, probably an adult, would also be a useful addition.

Anyone interested should call the school, at 466-2200.

ner city of Newark or Plainfield. This means that many boys—13 out of the first 17—never have visitors. How can a parent (assuming the boy has a parent) get from Atlantic City or the heart of Newark, to a remote spot like Blawenburg, even if the parent has a car, which is very unlikely indeed?

"Lack of visitors means that a one-to-one relationship between the boys and some adult is very important," says Mrs. Edward Gryzbek of Princeton's Council of Community Services, "and it's been a real eye-opener to see how interested the community has become."

Community Help Out. The Boy Scout leader who took Training School youngsters on a hike, reported with delight that it was the most responsive group of boys he'd ever taken on a hike. Ladies from the Blawenburg Reformed Church pledged a continuing supply of cakes to be kept in the school's freezer so that every boy would have one for a birthday party—possibly the first birthday party in his whole life.

Boys respond to the gleaming newness of their school and on a recent day when more than 100 guests of the Council of Community Services went on a tour, "the boys took a keen interest in sucking the ice up before hand," Mrs. Gryzbek says. Bright colors, spacious rooms, a dazzling gymnasium that can be divided for simultaneous use by more than one group, a projector for Saturday night movies, a big echoing swimming pool are all part of the scene.

Newcomer. A boy, entering, is given a physical. Of the first 17, 10 needed eye glasses and one eye surgery; 11 had had previous psychiatric evaluation; only one of the 17 could read at grade level, all 17 were two grades behind; one, illiterate, can now read one month of school; one, 12, had been expelled five times in three months from a Newark school for problem children.

"A kid who arrives here has just been through a helluva lot," explains the school's director of education, Anthony Mercantino. "This is no time to throw tests at him. I just talk to him for about an hour. Then a week later, I give him the whole test battery to see what he can or can't do."

"Our curriculum is geared to success," he emphasizes. "We want a kid to achieve, to have the feeling of success. Most of them have never succeeded in school before."

Much of the work is audiovisual. "These aren't bookish kids," Mr. Mercantino smiles. "Give a kid here a book and he'll most likely throw it back at you. But he'll sit on a telephone and watch a film on exactly the same subject matter as the book."

"It's a long school day—8:30 to 3:30. We have a gym teacher now," he continues, "and just since he came, and the boys began to get a gym or a swimming break, you can see the difference in classroom behavior."

After school, there may be basketball because each residential cottage has its own basketball court. Inside is a craft room where a boy can make airplane models or learn about clay. There's a TV set and a ping-pong table. In these cottages, in school, at play or at meals, the boys are under 24-hour surveillance.

"Schools like this used to be warehouses where you stored human beings," Dr. Vuocolo says. "We think, in terms of storage, but in terms of control—and rehabilitation."

Ladies from the Blawenburg Reformed Church pledged a continuing supply of cakes to be kept in the school's freezer so that every boy would have one for a birthday party—possibly the first birthday party in his whole life.

urday to those who have worked with him during the past seven years. "Specifically, I want to develop a new and radically different center for training leaders of youth."

"Secondly, because too much of my time in the last two years has been spent trying to raise money for Youth Associates so it could continue to serve the Princeton Community."

Youth Associates' staff has announced plans for three programs this summer, open to teen-agers. A six-week work project on a Navajo reservation (tentatively scheduled for July 1-August 13); serving in an open air camp for Trenton children ages 4 to 10 on the Princeton Day School grounds in cooperation with United Progress Inc. of Trenton, and a Bahama sailing camp, repeating a project of the past two summers.

Inquiries should be directed to John Saladino at the Youth Associates' office, 821-2359.

CAR SKIDS ON BAYARD

Hits Pole. A Trenton woman was treated at Princeton Hospital for cuts and bruises and released early Sunday evening, following a skidding accident on lower Bayard Lane.

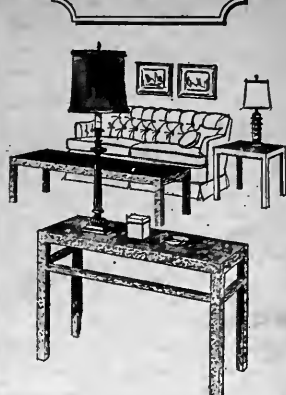

Winifred Perpetua, 38, told police she was rounding a slight curve when she lost control. Her 1968 sedan skidded into a pole opposite Birch Avenue, damaging the entire front end. It was snowing at all the time and Ptl. Howard Sweeney made no charges.

Last Wednesday morning, Sigurd G. Waaben, 39, 75 Clover Lane, received a laceration of his lower lip when his sports car struck a car parked in front of 99 Braeburn Drive.

Mr. Waaben told Ptl. Michael Koplin Jr. that he had no explanation for the accident.

BANK ELECTS BOOSER As Executive Vice President

William H. Booser, Jr., Woodville Road, Hopewell, has been elected executive vice-president of the Princeton Savings and Loan Association.

A graduate of Princeton High School, University of Virginia and the American Institute of Banking, Mr. Booser began his banking career in 1935 with Princeton Bank and Trust.

He served for six years on the Hopewell School Board, is a former Trustee of the Hopewell Presbyterian Church and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of American Legion Post 330.

ENGINEER RETIRES

From RCA Staff, Herman M. Gurin, a staff engineer for the RCA Space Center, announced his retirement last week after more than 34 years with the company, most of them in a research scientist for the National Broadcasting Company. A resident of 14 Windsor Drive, Princeton Junction, Mr. Gurin received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from New York University in 1936 and did graduate work at Columbia University. Joining RCA before graduating from NYU, he helped develop special lighting equipment and instrumentation for NBC, going on to do research in color TV equipment and studio design.

Mr. Gurin served as a laboratory officer for the Navy's Material and Science Laboratory during World War II, as he did research in shipboard communications, applied mechanics and metallurgy. He is a retired captain in the U. S. Naval Reserve. After the war, he returned to NBC.

Before joining the Space Center in 1958, Mr. Gurin spent a year with Radio Free Europe in Munich, Germany, as chief engineer, heading plans and expansions of 26 short wave, relay and broadcast transmitters and setting up antennas for 22 studios.

A fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, Mr. Gurin has been an associate editor of the AIAA Journal of Spacecraft and Rockets. At the Space Center, he was Technical Papers Administrator and handled special assignments for the chief engineer.

VICE PRESIDENT NAMED
By Princeton Firm, Dr. Raymond B. Hoxeng, 25 Wheatcheaf Lane, former president of Princeton University, has been appointed vice-president of Wood & Tower, Inc.

As vice-president of the Princeton-based consulting firm, Dr. Hoxeng will concentrate on client relations. In his former post, he presided over seven campuses of Inter American University, a private school with an enrollment of 8,000 students.

Dr. Hoxeng earned his doctorate in chemistry at Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland. He spent 13 years in engineering and research with U. S. Steel Corporation.

The new vice president is currently a director of Copper Data Systems, Inc., Silver Springs, Md.

NEW CHAIRMAN CHOSEN
By ORC Service Corp., Joseph R. Goeke, Ridge Road, Kingston, has been elected chairman of the board of ORC Service Corporation, a director of Market Dynamics, Inc.

Mr. Goeke's new positions are with two Opinion Research Corporation subsidiaries located in Princeton. As a vice-president and director of ORC, he is responsible for client liaison and design of major research projects.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, the newly-elected board chairman has been a member of the ORC staff since 1947.

RCA SETS RECORD

For '68 Sales And Profits, RCA's sales figures for 1968 topped $3.1 billion, setting a new record for the seventh successive year according to Robert W. Samoff, President and Chief Executive Officer.

The 1968 Annual Report indicated that RCA had increased its sales by 3.4% over 1967. The corporation's profits after taxes were $154,047,000 while earnings per share of common stock amounted to $2.37.

Fourth quarter sales in 1968 were $340 million, some $20 million more than 1967's final quarter. RCA's $52 million profits for the fourth quarter were the largest in the company's history.

Mr. Samoff noted that RCA's net income would have about 17 cents more per common share, had it not been affected by the Federal surtax.

DIRECTOR APPOINTED
At RCA Laboratory, RCA has appointed Leonard R. Weisberg, 949 Mercer Road, as director of the Semi-conductor Device Research Laboratory in Princeton.

Mr. Weisberg joined RCA Laboratory in 1965, after two years at the IBM Watson La-

ANTIQUES TO BE SHOWN

At Day School, Art work from the collection of Craig Miller Interiors, 238 Nassau Street, will be included in the 10th annual Princeton Antiques Show to open on March 29 at the Princeton Day School.

Thirty dealers from six states will exhibit antiques ranging from jewelry to furniture in the three-day Princeton show. The Miller collection includes items dating back to the 14th century.

The Miller collection features oil paintings from the Rembrandt school and an oil painting of the head of a lion standing on the base of the Purina estate. Several items were once owned by Ernest Hemingway.

For the fourth successive year, the antique show will present a central garden designed and constructed by Larry Benz of Kale's Nursery. Plans call for a formal garden bordered on one side by a stone wall and clumps of birch trees surrounding a terrace and pool.

On Friday, March 21, there will be two lectures. Hedy Bucklin Landman will speak on "Elias Boudinot," and Kenneth Chorley will discuss "Colonial Williamsburg." All proceeds from the show benefit Wellesley College.

CITIZENS NAMED

To Aid Open Space. Two citizens groups have been appointed to aid the Township Open Space Commission. Both will work on planning and administering specific tracts of Open Space.

The Stony Brook Citizens Advisory Committee will study the 1,000 acres in the flood plain of Stony Brook, identifying areas that might be acquired for public use.

W. H. Hasting, Cherry Valley Road, is chairman. Committee members are Geralt Brewe, 190 Russell Road; Amos Eno, Quaker Road; Scott A. Frampton, Princeton Kingston Road; Aubrey Huston, 79 Hun Road; Charles L. Jaffin, 522 Rosedale Road; Mrs. H. Philip Manis, 367 Edgemoor Road; John L. Moore, 21 Hun Road; W. Joseph Shinn, 8 Princeton Avenue; and Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer, 86 Olden Lane.

The second group will plan the kind of public use that might be made of the Old Borough Sewer Field, the six and one-half acre tract at the foot of Elm Road where it joins Mountain Avenue. The tract includes the old trolley right-of-way and the stream that runs from Mountain Avenue to Stony Brook.

Michael Erdman, 391 Elm Road, is chairman. Members are Charles K. Agle, 247 Elm Road; Ray Dawson, 152 Westcott Road; Frank Gorman

DISCUSSING ANTIQUES SHOW: Mrs. George L. Mellor Jr., representing the Wellesley Club, and Craig Miller of Craig Miller Interiors, one of the exhibitors, discuss the tenth annual show. It will take place from March 29-31 at the Princeton Day School.

291 Elm Road; Mrs. Merrill Knapp, Rosedale Lane, C. McE. Norton, 87 Lafayette Road; Mrs. John Pearce, 98 Westcott Road; Mrs. L. Fenn Stafford, 338 Great Road; Richard L. Stoddard, 141 Westcott Road and William H. Walker, 168 Westcott Road.

PADDLE TENNIS COURTS?

Board Is Working On It. Apparently free from the furor of last year's association with the swimming pools, the Joint Recreation Board has time to consider other projects.

What it has in mind are two paddle tennis courts and two bocce courts which would be located near the pools in the area between the men's bath house and Route 206.

The board has $12,000 set aside for the paddle courts and $1,000 for the bocce courts. Donald Barr, director of the Recreation Board, explained that no new funding would be required as the proposed courts came under a 1964 ordinance that provided money for the construction of tennis courts, paddle courts, sidewalks and such to develop the side of Community Park near 206.

At its February meeting, the board, which is in the talking to contractors stage, listened to Donald G. Magill, 179 Meadowbrook Drive, who had a court constructed on his property. He turned over plans from the American Platform Tennis Association which he had used and said that he would be happy to serve as an advisor to the board.

Mr. Magill reported that the standard price for a paddle tennis court was about $500. An all-weather court could be built for $2,500, he said, excluding labor.

The playing area of a paddle court measures 60 by 30 feet. Both Mr. Magill and the board predicted the sport would mushroom in tennis minded Princeton if facilities were available. The Pretty Brook Club has one such court, which was built in 1929 at a cost of $1800.

Mr. Barr reported that the

Can Become a Buffer, Board member William J. Armiger described Mrs. Carlin's proposal as "a creative idea that has a lot of merit. But," he added, "an advisory committee all too often becomes a 'buffer' when painful decisions are called for."

"It's this type of misuse which we seek to avoid," he said. "It can occur quite by accident even though this was not the original intent. It's the nature of people to avoid painful decisions."

Obituaries

Mrs. Ruth O'Day Ridder, 81, of 21 Westcott Road, died March 3 at her home. She was the widow of Victor F. Ridder and mother of Hugh N. Boyd, president of the company, which publishes the New Brunswick Daily Home News.

Mrs. Ridder was a director of the Home News Publishing Co., and served as its vice president.

924-0813

Her second husband died in 1953. In addition to Mr. Boyd, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henderson Talbot of Princeton, also by her first marriage; a sister, Mrs. Wide-man Lyle; a son, Walter T. and Robert B. Ridder; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Gretchen Heston, Mrs. Alice Heston and Mrs. David Chalfont; five grandchildren, 22 step grandchildren, five great grandchildren, and three step-great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at St. John's Episcopal Church, New York. Contributions in her memory may be made to Good Will Industries, New York City. The Mather Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Bessie D. Sked, 83, a retired school teacher and club leader, died February 28 in the Ogden Nursing Home. A former Pennington resident, she lived in 19 Delaware Avenue, Ewing Township.

Mrs. Sked taught in Pennington, Princeton and Milton, Pa. She was a member of the WSCS, United Church Women and the Socialists of Pennington Methodist Church. She was a past president of the Kiwanis Club of Pennington and had been a district officer in the New Jersey Federation of Women's Club.

The widow of Norman S. Sked, she is survived by a son, Wilson D. Sked of Lake Forest, Ill., and by a grandson. The service was held in Pennington, the Rev. Rollo A. Michael of the Pennington Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Ewing Church Cemetery.

George O. Cook, 46, formerly of Kingston, died suddenly February 28 at the New Jersey Youth Center for Boys, Millville, where he had been employed as the assistant cook for two years.

Born in Kingston, Mr. Cook is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Cook; a brother, Harry M. of Kingston, and five grandchildren.

The service was held in the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Frank J. Bahr of the Reformed Church of Rocky Hill officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. J. Quinn, 86, of Sunset Road, Skillman, died March 1 in his home. His death was attributed to burns suffered when he set his bedding on fire with a cigarette.

Mr. Quinn was a janitor at the Princeton Laboratories. His body was discovered by a woman neighbor at 2:50 p.m. He suffered third degree burns, examination disclosed.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy S. Quinn, from whom he was separated; a son, Patrick Quinn of Kennett Square, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Pamela Myrnes of Hopewell Township; one granddaughter, a brother, Theodore of Utica, N. Y., and two sisters, Mrs. Helen from St. Charles, D. C. and Mrs. Mary Callahan of Utica.

Regular high mass was celebrated in St. Alphonsus Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Adolph Johansen, 76, of Lincoln Avenue, Griggstown, was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital on March 3. A native of Bergen, Norway, he had lived in this country for most of his adult life.

Previous to his retirement, he had for more than 40 years been business manager of the Norwegian Seaman's Church Mission in Bergen, Norway.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Olga Olsen Johansen; a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Peters of Griggstown; and two grandchildren. The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Griggstown Reformed Church of which he was a member of the consistory and an elder. Burial will be in Griggstown Cemetery, under direction of the Mather Funeral Office, Coalinga, Calif. The service was made to the Memorial Fund of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Mrs. Priscilla Chatter, 81, of 422 Burd Street, Princeton, died March 3 in the Parkway Nursing Home.

Born in England, she was a 1906 graduate of the McKinley Hospital School of Nursing. She served as school nurse at Cathedral High School and its grammar school in Trenton for 30 years.

A Pennington resident for six decades, she was a member of the Pennington Methodist Church and was active in its various organizations. She belonged to the Senior Citizens of Hopewell Township and the Pennington Women's Club.

A daughter, Mrs. Edith Sant Cruz of New York; a son, Mr. G. T. Smith of White Horse, and three grand children survive. The funeral will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Blackwell Memorial Home, Pennington, the Rev. Rollo A. Michael officiating. Burial will be in Ewing Church Cemetery.

William V. Parke Sr., 73, of 5 Moffatt Avenue, Trenton, died February 28 in St. Francis Hospital. A former Rocky Hill resident, he was employed for 40 years with the Princeton University department of grounds and buildings before he retired in 1962.

Mr. Parke was an honorary member of the Rocky Hill Fire Company. He lived in Trenton for the past two years.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Myrtle G. Parke; two daughters, Mrs. Albert Jarvis, with whom he lived, and Mrs. Otto T. Young Jr. of Rocky Hill; two sons, William V. Parke Jr. of Princeton and Garrett W. Parke of Skillman, and five grandchildren.

The service was held in the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Frank J. Bahr of the Reformed Church of Rocky Hill officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

RPW TO MEET MONDAY
To Hear Politics Professor
The Business and Professional Women's Club will meet Monday at the Nassau Inn to hear Dr. Richard Ullman speak on "Foreign Policy Problems Facing the Nixon Administration."

An associate professor of politics and international affairs at Princeton University, Dr. Ullman is currently dean and director of the graduate program at the Woodrow Wilson Institute.

A social hour will begin at 5:30, with dinner scheduled for 6 p.m. Reservations call 851-1843 before Friday evening.

JACK IS STOLEN
From Car Wash. A hydraulic jack valued at $164.50 was stolen sometime during the week ending March 1, near a car wash on 350 Alexander Street.

A second theft reported by the Township police took place at the University faculty housing project on Harrison Street. A 1968 transaminator was reported missing by the Rinseline Construction Company of New York.

FELLOWSHIP TO MEET
A Presbyterian Church of the Youth Project of the Princeton Fellowship of Reconciliation will meet at 4 p.m. Monday, March 12, at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

The group will conduct an informal discussion with Igal Roodenko on the subject of "Sustaining our rate of normal work." Mr. Roodenko operates a small printing shop in New York City and is associated with the War Resisters' League, WGN Magazine and the National Committee for Conscientious Objectors.

JOINS BOROUGHOFFICE
As Probationary Officer
The Borough's newest patrolman will be William C. Williams, Trenton, who was appointed March 1 as a probationary officer for a year.

An army veteran who has most recently been employed by a trucking firm, Officer Williams replaced Paul J. Donald, who resigned last fall, after 19 years of service. Chief Peter J. McGowan reported that "Wilhelm" brings the Borough's strength to 27 men, one less than the number authorized.

BIRTHS
19 Born — and nine girls were born last week at Princeton Hospital.

Daughters: to Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Schwartz, Northgate Apts. 1263, Cranbury, on February 23; Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaBelle, 117 Kendall Road, Kendall Park, on February 24; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Copeland, 98 West Broad Street, Hopewell, on February 26.

WELCOME GRANNY!

Granny's folly has opened here at the Freight Station. Our granny, Jane Hov, has a lovely shop filled with delightful toys, books and clothes for the tiny tot. Do come and make her acquaintance.

With the excitement of the opening of granny's folly, rehearsals for the Happy Time opening for a three weekend run at the Music Hall in Clinton, other activities at the Theater and here at Turntable Junction. I keep busy. More of those delightful animal prints by Margaret Curies are here. Other new things too.

add the extra touch so sought after in this era of "hurry-up." How pleasant to drive up to the front door over a carpet of pine needles!

The best of convenient living all on one floor — three bedrooms and 2 baths in a separate wing. Living room in contemporary style with raised hearth fireplace and bay window to bring in the outdoors. Separate dining room opens to enclosed porch, eat-in kitchen with pass-through to large paneled family room (24'x18'). Basement is bone dry and plenty big enough for ping pong table. Easy walk to University and Riverside School. June occupancy. $58,500

YOUR VERY OWN ESTATE
A drive winding from Province Line Road leads to this country house set in the midst of 6 acres of natural beauty. Surrounding the house are lovely formal boxwood hedges, terraces and lawn. A raised patio overlooks the oversized pool.

Handsome living room with fireplace, study, separate dining room, enclosed porch, kitchen and full bath on first floor. Three double bedrooms, sewing room and two baths on second floor. A separate bedroom and bath over connecting garage is perfect for visitors. Basement rumpus room with fireplace and another bath.

The possibilities are endless — so many areas for a family with diversified interests. Love of the outdoors and room to do your own "thing." A very special listing. $7,100

Rustic Charm With Modern Convenience

Complete with all of the modern convenience that you can possibly desire in your home.

Set in an oasis of beauty about 2 miles from Princeton Township on approximately 1 1/2 acres, the house is classic in lines and was designed by William Thompson, Architect.

This traditional beauty features all the charm of an old Colonial and none of the inconvenience. A fireplace in the living room, game room, and master bedroom enhance the illusion of old world living. Four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths and 2 car garage are only a few of the assets. Why not give us a call and get the details.

STUDENTS IN THEATRE
School Theatre Suggested.
A theatre arts program for high school students, circling out to reach the community and the younger children of the Middle School and Elementary schools has been proposed by Don Evans, English teacher and drama coach at Princeton High School.
The program would also give students of all ages more intensive experience in theatre's beginning with role playing in the elementary grades, extending to work in the high school and linking all parts of the curriculum to the theatre.

The first thing Mr. Evans wants to do is establish a kind of resident company, consisting of faculty and high school student performers and probably drawing on the town for additional actors and for experts in technical matters.
As a start, he will produce this spring one of three plays, depending on the outcome of a questionnaire he's sending out to teachers. The choice is "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," "The Cherry Orchard" or "The Menagerie."

School and Play. Mr. Evans suggests that the resident company produce at least one play for high school students, one play for the Middle School and one play for elementary students, the last two strongly centered on the school curriculum.

Study guides would be prepared for each production. Before and after the play, students in English or history classes, for example, would evaluate their studies in the play at hand, making a kind of interplay.
Open rehearsals would make each play an "informal teaching situation." Post play discussions would consider things like the function of scenery, how the audience identifies with the play and weather the production was successful.

Curriculum and Play. Workshop demonstrations would be another facet of the Evans program. In the elementary grades, for example, "creative dramatics" would give young children a chance to train their budding interpretive abilities and to sharpen their awareness of things around them.
Youngsters studying Freudism, for instance, could play the roles of various kinds of people in the feudal structure, as an aid to understanding a concept sometimes hard for today's children to grasp.

In the high school, students would participate in lecture-discussions on the theory and practice of theatre arts or on various plays.
Mr. Evans suggests, as a high school example, lectures on the Theatre of Bertolt Brecht—relating, at the moment, to a production of "The Good Woman of Setzuan" which Mr. Evans and a group of high school students have in rehearsal.

Workshops in acting and directing would lead to student productions and perhaps an informal season of drama, music and theatre conducted by the resident company for the whole student body.
Production notes and study guides for teachers and students would be provided all along the way. Mr. Evans proposes. In the case of "Oh, Dad," for example, members of the high school faculty would prepare units on the Theatre of the Absurd, on Images and the Theatre and even on the American Pantomime as presented on the Mass Media.

AMERICAN PREMIERE

"An Irish Faustus." Undergraduate actors and producers of Princeton University's Theatre Intime have been given the rights to the first American production of Lawrence Durrell's "An Irish Faustus," and the play will open in Murray Theatre this Thursday.

It will play again Friday and Saturday, and on Sunday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, all at 8:30 p.m.

It all came about because Durrell went to a cocktail party in New York and heard a guest describe Theatre Intime. He was interested, and began to talk about his play. Durrell, of course, is primarily a novelist ("The Alexandria Quartet") but he had written "An Irish Faustus" for a German actor to perform, and the play had been given in Germany.

Intime obtained copies of the script. A recording, in French, by a cast of French actors, was in Firestone Library. Intime members read and pondered the play and decided to go after the rights.

Not Traditional. The director is Daniel Berkowitz, who is Princeton and newly elected executive producer for Intime. He talks about the play: "Durrell believes it's about time people broke away from the traditional Faustus, and he didn't intend this to be a traditional play—it's more like an intellectual exercise. He wanted to move away from Goethe, so he moved closer to Karl Marx and he set the play in Ireland."

Mr. Berkowitz and the actors—there are nine characters and a coming and going of spirits—are probing the intellectual content of the play. Last Saturday, they held what Mr. Berkowitz calls "a gigantic think session, co-jessing all the ideas that go came to them during the previous two weeks of rehearsal. "Durrell uses the Faustus legend—the quest for supernatural power's. Durrell says, 'but it is not hell' to which Faustus descends—it's more a mind expanding, total experience."

Symbolism. The production will lean on symbolism rather than realism, Mr. Berkowitz says. A sculpture will dominate the stage, a sculpture which looks solid but comes apart from time to time. There will be no walls.

In contrast, Mr. Berkowitz is using realistic props, like antique mugs, wine glasses, alchemist's gear and so on. Costumes are what he calls "semi-realistic." They are late 18th century, but somewhat surrealistic: "that silvery lace—is it really there, or not?" Costume designer is Michael Barry of Paris, who designed for Intime's "The Misanthrope." Music for "An Irish Faustus" has been composed in Britain by Robert Howard and recorded by him on the chapel organ at Oxford University. William Brown has composed additional music.

The role of Faustus is more than twice as long as the next two largest roles combined. ("Durrell is a novelist, after all. . . .") and Mr. Berkowitz smiles apologetically. Faustus will be played by William Hoadkins of the Intime company. He has played Gus in Intime's production of Pinter's "The Dumbwaiter," Brecht's "The Good Soldier Schweigen," and James Tyrone in O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey into Night."

Other roles will be played by Bernard Miller and his wife Marie Miller, both of whom have long credits behind them. Mr. Miller directed at the Theatre Lobby in Washington, D.C. and at the Trenton Cultural Center Theatre. He has acted in "Endgame," "The Lady's Not for Burning," and "Taming of the Shrew."

Mrs. Miller appeared in Intime's "The Balcony" and "The Misanthrope," and previously played in "The Glass Menagerie" and "Women of Virtue Wolf" in Washington, D.C.

Mephisto will be Larry Strichman, who directed Intime's "The Lesson" and played in the Summer Intime company. Other members of the cast will be Peter Joyce, Sheila Sheffield, Greg Troll, Eric von Starck, Hugh Davies, Anne Charrier, Roger Arrington, William Bridenstine, Nicholas Brooke, Edward Milne and William Tomlinson.

At first, actors and director worked chiefly in the old Nassau Street School and only moved to the Intime stage recently. This necessitated the most precise blocking. Mr. Berkowitz points out, Rehearsals began February 2 and the scenes began to fall into order last week. "Durrell is a complex writer," says the director, "it's an exercise in finding the meaning of reality as related to the spirit world."

"MUSIC MAN!" For P.J. & B. Boys age 10-14 and a barbershop quartet are on the demand list for Meredith Lyons' "The Music Man." 1969 P.J. & B. production to be given May 8-10 in Murray Theatre.

The boys will belong to the "River City Boys Band" ("Seventy-six Trombones") but youngsters who try out don't necessarily have to know how to play an instrument, according to director Millon Lyon.

P.J. & B. shows are "community musical extravaganzas," in Mr. Lyon's words, and they involve all kinds of community people: housewives, teenagers, commuters (hence the name, P.J. & B.), including some who have had experience in the theatre, others who haven't even been on a stage.

Audition Times, Tryouts will be held Saturday, March 22 from 9:30 to 12:30 for children age 9-15, and boys are especially urged to come.

After lunch, tryouts will be held for adults and teenagers over 15, chorus or principal parts. These will last from 1:30 to 5:30.

Sunday, March 23, a general audition for chorus and principals will be held from 10:30 to 5:30 and from 7:30 to 10:30. All auditions will be held in the

"Futz!" Cancelled "Unforeseen complications" have required cancellation of the national tour for "Futz!" and the off-Broadway hit has been wiped off McCarter's schedule. hasement auditorium of Princeton Theological Seminary. Dancers are invited to a special audition Sunday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m. This audition will be held in McCarter Theatre. "BLOW UP"

At McCarter, "Annoyance's" "Blow Up," from 1966, will be shown at McCarter next Wednesday, March 12 at 8 as the first in the Theatre's "Fabulous Foursome" series.

Next, Tuesday, the International Film Series will present "The Hill," from 1965, winner of the Best Picture award at the Cannes. The title refers to a hill of sand which British prisoners of war in North Africa were forced to climb as punishment. Sean Connery stars in his first non-Bonded role.

"PETER PAN" SCHEDULED At Stuart Country Day School's Country Day School's "Peter Pan" becomes never-neverland Thursday and Friday nights at 7:15 p.m., as the school's dramatic society presents "Peter Pan," starring Ann Convery in the title role, Irene Sandomchewski as Wendy, Darling and Susan F. Dougherty as Captain Hook.

Lee Lillie and Mervyn G. Dine portray Michael and John Darling in James Barrie's masterpiece, while Elizabeth Lincoln plays Peter. Darling and Miss Dougherty doubles as Mr. Darling. Tickets, at $1 each, will be available at the door.

Other cast members include Alicia Avery, Amy Cook, Deane Cornish, Deane Cornish, Julia Drueing, Diana Edelman, Margaret Fosse, Catherine Franzoni, George Ann Gilispie, Elizabeth Goheen, Susan Harford, Ruth Ann Kayler, Patricia Lillie, Carol Longbardo, Laura Loughlin, Regina Meredith, Deborah Read, Rob in Tannenbaum, Naomi Willis, Christina Wozniak, Margaret Young and Carol Zawadzky.

GOODBYE, "AUNT"

"Charley," Almost Through. "Charley's Aunt" will receive its final performance at St. Carthe Theatre this Friday at 8:30.

"The Three Sisters" has only two more repertory performances, this Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday, March 16 at 3 p.m. Tickets for both may be ordered by calling the box office at 921-8300.

TWO PERFORMANCES SET

ix Pennington Players' performances of "The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe," will be given at two area schools this month by the Pennington Players, as part of the group's tour with its annual Children's Theatre Productions.

On Saturday, March 15, the Friends of the Cranbury School will sponsor a performance at 10:30 a.m. in the Cranbury School gym. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50c for children, with tickets available at the door or from members of the Friends of Cranbury School.

The following Saturday at 2 p.m. the play will be given at the John Witherspoon School auditorium for the benefit of the benefits of the Johnson Park School P.T.O. Tickets, $1 for adults and 75c for children, are on sale at the Johnson Park School and Allen's.

PRINCE

The Impossible Years (now playing) is a mildly amusing situation comedy for general audience. David Niven, elegant as always, is a bit misplaced as the parent of a 17-year-old daughter, Lola Abright as his wife has her moments, but this is a little comedy where father is the ultimate fool and mother stands by helplessly winging her hands.

Christina Ferrare is the free-wheeling daughter who is arrested for picketing on campus while Niven is teaching a class. Father assumes that her ways are due to the boy next door (Rick Chait), and advises her to drop him. She does, and fills the house with screaming teens, including a bearded art who later paints her in the nude and shocks Niven's cocktail party guests when he unveils it. It goes on, and the ending is a happy one.

Romeo and Juliet (now playing). Italian director Franco Zeffirelli has given us an exciting interpretation of the old classic. The film swirls with color, movement and excitement—with the animal spirits and headiness of youth. Here are no languishing, sighing lovers.

Olivia Hussey, said to have been 15 when she played the role, is the youngest actress ever to have undertaken the part of Juliet professionally. Leonard Whiting is said to have been only 17 when the film was made. Zeffirelli has been able to draw from these youngsters performances with a touching childlike quality, yet with an intensity and sexuality that makes plausible the tragic train of events.

He has taken many liberties with Shakespeare in an effort to stress its relevance to contemporary problems. The scene is mid-15th century Italy, rather than Shakespeare's Elizabethan 16th century, enabling the film to capitalize on the richness of Italian Renaissance costumes, interiors and architecture.

John McEnery's flashing performance as Mercutio sometimes steals the show. Michele York as Tybalt and Mimi O'Shea as Friar Laurence are excellent. In all, it's a version of "Romeo and Juliet with which young people can identify.

GARDEN

The Subject Was Roses (now playing) Patricia Neal's return to the screen after a three-year absence enforced by a near-fatal illness is a source of great satisfaction. She retains her capacity to give a skillful performance. Her marvelously expressive eyes still convey a sadness—now deepened—that goes beyond the power of words, and she uses them here effectively to portray an embittered wife and mother who feels that life has somehow passed her by.

The film is an intimate drama about family relationships with three major characters—a father, a mother, and their only son who has just returned from service in the Army in World War II. It was a successful stage play by Frank Gelfand, who also wrote the film script.

Jack Albertson as the father and Martin Sheen as the son are both repeating their stage roles. The measure of their superb performance is nowhere so fully revealed as the scene when the son tells his father he has always loved him but has never been able to put it into words. It could have been corny, but it isn't.

IT'S NEW To Us

60 SALES EVENTS SET

At F. W. Woolworth's. In the past year, Woolworth's has changed a great deal. Our grandmothers would be sure to find unpainted furniture, women's fashions, phonograph records, file cabinets.

But the biggest change comes this year with 60 sales promotion events planned to celebrate Woolworth's 90th anniversary. It's a "milestone in retailing history," according to the vice-president of the mid-Atlantic region, H. E. Moeding, Jr.

He has also announced that "We're even changing the Woolworth sign as it appears on new stores. The new 'Woolworth' will be in stylized blue lettering and will replace the diamond-enclosed 'W' which Frank Woolworth had painted on the door of his first New York office and which has been used ever since."

Dave Sample, the new manager of Woolworth's in Princeton, adds that he believes that eventually all of the stores will be Woolworth blue and white. Checking into the office records, he finds that 1969 is the 30th anniversary for the Princeton store. It opened in 1939 on Nassau Street where Landau's is now, moving further down the block in 1950.

Anniversary activities will hit their peak in May with a television spectacular on NBC and a Founder's Day celebration at the original store in Lancaster, Pa. Woolworth's has come a long way since the founder opened his first store with an inventory of $410. His opening day sales amounted to $127.65. The Princeton store sold $11,000 in paperback books alone last year.

In the early days, Frank Woolworth personally bought every item that appeared for sale on his counters, insisting on quality merchandise. "Our label is comparable to your name brands," Mr. Sample comments. "Satisfaction, or your money refunded."

The Princeton store is stocked with items that appeal to this locality. Another store in another town might be quite different. With the uniqueness of students in mind, Princeton carries steel typewriter tables and a file cabinet-safe ($11.99), and six-drawer steel cabinets about 19" high ($9.99). Clothes hampers are in the window this week—featured at $12.99. And paperbacks—ranging from art books (Bash, Renoir, Giotto) to fiction to cook-cosmetics to Meo's warb ("I wear shirts, of course.")

Sample says. Woolworth's has wiglets ($24.95) and 22" long falls ($19.95). And Brandy snifters up to 12" high—in case you have an indoor planter in mind.

Roaming around, past Northrup seed packets and Punch 'n' Grow plants, you find rugs, cut lengths of fabric, the well-made Buster Brown line of children's clothes. There's a big supply of bedding items (the students again), needlework, veil hats ($1.19), and about every kind of stocking and panty-hose imaginable, under the Woolworth "Primrose" brand.

It seems illogical, but nylon front you'll see men's upion umbrellas at only $3.99, as well as flowered and solid-colored slim umbrellas for yourself. You can buy girls' Wrangler jeans in sun yellow this year, or beige or well as the traditional blue. ($3.99) Or in a corded stripe at $4.99.

Back among the housewares are sets of unbreakable Melamine dishes—45 pieces for $8.98, and Oneda's 24-piece set of stainless steel tableware ($8.99). Here we found some aids to kitchen organization, such as a twin drawer tray for kitchen silver and the Rubber-rade drawers that are easy to install in either wood or metal cabinets. Widths range from 9" to 14".

"I think we have a nice selection of lamps," Mr. Sample says, and we noticed many simple, attractive designs utilizing milkglass, iron, marble and maple—even a globe of plastic string hanging from a wall fixture. There are table sizes and floor sizes, too. Woolworth's certainly has changed, grandma would say.

IF YOU'RE HARD TO FIT
Try Castle Bootery. Is someone in your family hard to fit in shoes? While Castle Bootery on Palmer Square (next to the Playhouse) doesn't specialize in odd sizes, Peter Monti offers

We saw the new, higher heels in the very feminine LifeStride shoes that Mr. Monti is getting around to putting on display while he lides up from the February sale. Some have a pearly lustre finish with a soft glow, others are reptile grains and buttery-soft leathery. There are delicate sandals, pumps touched with bows, soft pastels. ($41-$118)

It all adds up to the soft, romantic look for spring to compliment your feminine crepes, suit collars and knits.

We saw a black patent leather sandal, as shiny as a mirror, trimmed with a grosgrain bow. The slim straps sling at the heel and are light and strong. If you're tired about color, you'll find the neutral shades of bone and platinum go beautifully with every color dress. Castle Bootery carries these in sleek ribbon-boxed pumps.

To wear with pants, Life Stride has designed a high vamp sling back with a medium heel, accented on the toe with two curving bars of contrasting leather. And for summer, cool "strappy" straps—no toe, no heel, just a touch of color.

Castle Bootery is carrying the handsome Pedwin line for men, largely featuring the high vamp, monk-strap designs. We liked the grained brown leather crossed by a wide strap held by an antiqued brass buckle. An attractive Pedwin for boys, features a narrow strap, held on either side of the foot by two harness rings. ($13-$17)

For boys, too, are Pedwin's handsome, calf-high boots, with a moccasin toe and crepe soles. There's also a low version. Both are sturdy and extremely flexible for walking.

Among the Buster Browns for children, we noticed a boy's ankle-high boot in a rich brown calf, buckled high across the instep. ($12.95) For girls, a clever little, calf-trimmed on the flap with a metal bar, and a low pump, crossed high over the arch with a wide strap held by a bold buckle, both in pebbled leather.

We thought the Castle Bootery's "Miss America" shoes were equally wearable by girls or young minded women. The styles range from a chic brass-trimmed moccasin in white leather, to black patent and pastel pumps. ($12-$16)

The lustre finish panels have a frosted look. They're gently shaped pumps, with the higher heel and a no-stitch topline. The casuals in the line, to wear with pants and shirt-dresses, feature high-front flats with ornate metal ties, or spectators in pastel and black, and T-strap sling pumps.

Peter Monk, he would never tell you himself, likes kids. You can tell this from the way he joshes with them. We saw some youngsters pick up a box of shoes for the OEO nursery.

"They're not new," he said a little sadly, "but they're all in good condition. Customers leave them, and I fix them up for the minister to give out." He'd like to take a busload of kids to "some of the little shoe companies in Pennsylvania" this summer to show them how shoes are made and for the fun of excursion.

He opened the Castle Bootery about two years ago. "Last year was a good year," he says, "and I've met a lot of nice people."

Richard J. Chorlton, 158 Cleveland Lane, represented the Ohio Legislature at a meeting of leading architects from Mexico and the United States last month in Mexico City.

Mr. Chorlton is a Director of the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards in the United States. The meeting was held to investigate an agreement to allow architects to practice in both Mexico and the United States.

Mrs. Thomas C. Southerland, Jr., 282 Western Way, will participate in an Alumni Council meeting this week at Connecticut College, to discuss the school's plans for coeducation.

Mrs. Southerland was president of her graduating class and serves as vice president of the Connecticut College Club of Princeton.

Second Lt. William C. Buxton, whose wife, Cathy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Hooper, Hargens Road, Belle Mead, has been awarded the U.S. Air Force silver pilot wings at Vance AFB, Okla.

Lt. Buxton is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and was commissioned in 1947 after completion of Officer Training School.

Cadet Terry R. Silvester, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Silvester, Bayberry Road, has been named to the Commandant's List at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

A 1966 graduate of Hopewell Valley Central High School, Cadet Silvester will be commissioned a second lieutenant and award a B.S. degree upon graduation in 1970.

Alphus T. Masson, McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence Emeritus at Princeton University, recently received an honorary doctor of Humane Letters degree from Princeton College. Dr. Masson presently serves as Professor of Government and Law at the University of Virginia.

John V. Fleming, Faculty Road, an associate professor of English at Princeton University, has been named Master of Woodrow Wilson College. Dr. Fleming is one of 90 faculty members associated with the College, a student organization which offers residential, dining and social facilities to some 400 undergraduates.

Born in Gary, Indiana, the 32-year-old associate professor attended Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship. He received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1945.

In 1967, Dr. Fleming directed the Princeton Cooperative School of Education, designed to improve the academic skill and leadership qualities of disadvantaged high school students.

Robert W. Richardson, a former Princeton resident, plans to continue living in Bogota, Columbia, where he has served since 1965 as project manager of the United Nations Industrial Development program. Begun in 1961, the program has recently been extended through 1971, with a total UN budget of $1.3 million.

Before joining the U.N. staff, Mr. Richardson was an engineer and industrial consultant with several large New York engineering firms. Most of his 20 years of work in the engineering field was devoted to projects in Latin America.

Martin P. Lombardo, 339 Nassau Street, will address the National Multiple Sclerosis Society Region Conference in Washington, D.C. on Friday and Saturday. Mr. Lombardo will speak on the Princeton MS national pilot project that he initiated here three years ago. The program involves young people from grammar schools, colleges, who develop and coordinate programs for MS.

MUSIC In Princeton

"A SUPERLATIVE ARTIST"
 Janet Baker, the American-born, British-trained mezzo-soprano, presented a recital of lieder and French art songs at McCarter Theatre on Monday before her first concert audience here. Her program included concert arias by Mozart, lieder by Schubert, Schumann and Wolf, and art songs by Faure. Martin Lepp was at the piano, and she sang, as in the grand lieder tradition, but more than that, Miss Baker's performance was a quality of tone, the "sotto-voice" that has virtually disappeared from the contemporary vocal scene. There were no heroics or bravura mannerisms, but when called upon, as in the Mozart concert aria from "La Clemenza di Tito", Parlo, parlo, ma non m'ho, non m'ho, example, Miss Baker could deliver a strong, noble sound that will place her from top to bottom.

It was in this same selection that Miss Baker's interpretive artistry established itself so well, so convincingly portrayed a variety of moods yet never lost sight of the total conception of the piece.

If the Mozart was performed with vigor and conviction, the Schumann and Schubert songs which followed were rendered with true artistic mastery. Both singer and accompanist presented such refinement in their interpretations of these masterworks that it would be difficult to imagine greater performances of them. The minute degrees of dynamic shade, the perfect balance between accompanist and singer, the magnificent subdued singing by Miss Baker and the tender affection accorded the melodic fabric of Schumann and Schubert's creative genius—all this blended to produce one of the more memorable evenings of vocal artistry in recent years.

To be sure, there were times when Miss Baker's tone appeared sharp and occasionally "white" or uncolored, but her vocal technique in general appeared to be quite secure. Miss Baker has a unique voice in that it presents many different tonal qualities, thereby allowing her to be extremely versatile in her interpretations. Her breath control is nothing short of phenomenal and her singing range is better than most of the mezzo-sopranos this reviewer has heard at McCarter.

What places Miss Baker's singing among the most current singers of the art song genre is this total mastery of her instrument along with her formal comprehension of the music. Her understanding and interpretation of Schumann's "Mondnacht" was the ultimate in musical perceptiveness. With Miss Baker's rendition of the same song just one month ago, Miss Baker's tender, intimate portrayal, one heard a masterpiece. Miss Lepp's reading was entirely superficial by comparison, lowering the song to the status of folk fare. Miss Baker's artistry provided one other basic thing in this regard. She proved that on an old chestnut, such as Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song" (sung as a final encore), she can retain its youthful early 19th century charm when performed with the tenderness and consummate skill only a superlative artist can achieve.

"TO BE FORGOTTEN"
 Contemporary Music Unappreciated. Last week, the Princeton community received two unusual musical ensembles. They were the "Royal" P.D.Q. Bach Festival Orchestra with that notorious jester, Peter Schickel as master of ceremonies, and the Princeton Contemporary Music Ensemble, sponsored by the Princeton University department of music. (Who else?) Since the antics of the P.D.Q. Bach humor and parody are fairly well known, it is sufficient to say that this offering of the "Music at McCarter" series program was one of the most hilariously satisfying evenings of comedy this reviewer has experienced in recent memory. The concert by the Group for Contemporary Music on the other hand, will hopefully soon be forgotten.

This concert misrepresented the true meaning of the term "contemporary" as it applied to music for the obvious as well as obvious sounding of musical impotence behind the shield of an extremely narrow "school" of thought.

Heard on the program were Peter Westergaard's "Divertimento on Discobolus Fragments" (1966), the String Trio of Webern composed in 1927; a r.v.c. Salberger's "Impromptu" for Piano (1969); the "Janusary Music" for percussion composed in 1966 by Charles Wuorinen, and the "Composition for Four Instruments" by Milton Babbitt, professor of music at Princeton. This final work on the program was composed in 1948.

This reviewer arrived too late to hear the Divertimento by Peter Westergaard so the remarks earlier and those that follow cannot apply to his composition. Some of the composers who were represented on the program also took part as performers. Mr. Salberger, on flute; Mr. Wuorinen at the piano. Other performing artists were Jeanne Benjamin, violin; Jack Gillet, viola; Fred Sherry, cello; Jack Kreiselman, clarinet; and Raymond Deslaches on percussion.

The music is quite difficult to play from a traditional metrically oriented point of view and in this regard, all the performances were quite remarkable. Contemporary has come to mean to this writer a term to denote all valid creative art within the current generation.

With Webern's 1927 opus so overwhelmingly influential on works on this program, one can hardly call this a movement of avant garde thinkers any longer. Secondly, this idiom is only a fragment of the kind of music being composed today, yet those involved in its creation cannot accept any other kind of musical innovation or expression that does not retain the same tired affectations and mannerisms adhered to by the party chiefs.

These minor ninth and major seventh chords (Majors used them back in 1902), the abrupt changes in rhythmic

To Play Early Music

Music from the 13th through 17th centuries, played on the original instruments, will be performed in a free public concert next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Westminster Choir College.

The following Tuesday, March 18, Westminster will present a public concert of Baroque music and English music for recorder, flute, viol and harpsichord.

Both concerts will be given by musicians of the Aeolian Consort of New York. At the first concert, instruments used will be the recorder, krumphorn, korbolt, viol da gamba, rebec, chalumeau and various percussion instruments.

matter, the constant use of the extremes of registers, the overly percussive use of all the instruments, the dehydrated line as a horizontal melodic force, the use of tone color to distort rather than to enhance melodic values, the intentional avoidance of traditional repetition and metrical feelings; all these devices tend to neutralize whatever intrinsic creativity that might occur into an arbitrary, colorless continuum that by its very nature becomes both a form of repetition and conformity, the very concepts the creators are trying so hard to nullify.

These comments can be extended even to the grooming and dress of some of the composers as well. It is as if one had to prove one's individual credo through a facade, rather than action that is based on conviction.

ART In Princeton

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM
At Gallery 100, Gallery 100 has on view until March 22 a collection of etchings from the portfolios of Harold Altman and Linda Plotkin, husband and wife artists who currently live and work in Pennsylvania. There is a noticeable harmony of attitude in their work, but, in style and technique, there is a vast difference which makes this exhibition all the more interesting for the viewer.

The essence of this show might be contained in one particular exhibit, that of two etchings which are framed together, "April Mountain," by Linda Plotkin and "City Figure," by Harold Altman. Both indicate an interest in natural subjects to be expressed in realistic terms, though one sees Linda Plotkin's landscape as general, generous, warm in feeling, and Harold Altman's rendition of a figure in the street as far more intense, personal and illustrative.

Harold Altman, Born in New York in 1924, Mr. Altman received a thorough art training at the Art Students' League, Cooper's Union and The New School, followed by study in Paris at L'Academie de la Grande Chaumiere. After a hiatus of wartime service, he returned to France on a Fulbright-Hayes Scholarship, and there is no question that these two French experiences have deeply influenced and shaped his artistic development.

Many of the etchings shown here this month were drawn from, and imbued with, the flavor of favorite French scenes in streets and parks. He chooses to describe "the simple human activities of walking, sitting, reading and talking," in a figurative way to produce "not an act of shock, impact, or abrupt movement but rather an act that is calm and contemplative in feeling." The titles themselves are suggestive of this: "Meeting," "Figure in Doorway," or "Reading Man."

The artist says that the first four lines of each etching are the edges of his plate, and, from that point of departure, we can see that he continues working out a balanced design within the space, giving motivation and character to his figures and three dimension to his landscape by controlling the intensity of little incised parallel lines. When, on occasion, he uses color, it is generally only one, muted in tone, and it never takes away from the initial sense of containment or the special quality of drawing.

"Three Trees" is one of the best examples of Altman's concern with simple theme in compositional balance, brought to life by individual vignettes which are poignantly human. Studying the little conversation going on at the left of the picture leads to sharing the absorption on the part of the gossip and the aching boredom of the small boy struggling to be off. Other delightful details make this as enjoyable as a walk in the Bois de Boulogne.

Linda Plotkin, Linda Plotkin started her artistic career at the University of Wisconsin and received her MFA from Pratt Institute in 1962, after which she taught at the Pennsylvania State University from 1962-64. Like her husband, nature is her subject but as total landscape rather than a particular human sense, and while she shares his belief in the importance of sound design and a clear representation, in her case, she expresses her idea in a broad, easy technique.

The material she works on must be plastic or of similar malleable texture, for her etchings look as if they were drawn freely in coter crayon rather than hard bitten into copper plate. "Winter Light" is representative of her gift for solid area contrasts in composition with farm buildings grouped heavily in the dark behind a light foreground that is absolutely without change of value.

The scene looks like New England today, smothered under the recent record snow, a study in black and white. Often however, Miss Plotkin does print in multiple colors of good sound tone which add much to the active and fluid movement of her landscape compositions.

These two artists have worked with great energy and productivity and have earned considerable recognition in this country and abroad. Reading their biographies, one wonders at all the activities of the last decade.

Linda Plotkin has been included in more than 40 exhibitions from Seattle to Dallas and Potsdam, N. Y., not to mention Hawaii and Tokyo. Her work is in the permanent collections of the Brooklyn Museum, The Metropolitan Museum of Fine Art and the Library of Congress among many other public and private collections. Her husband, Assistant Professor of Art at Pennsylvania State University since

This so-called "post Webern" music is aptly termed, for it is beholden to an idiom that is 40 years old. None of the offerings have really added a thing to Webern's initial contribution.
There is vital "new music" being composed today both in the States and in Europe and Japan. Sound as a thing of beauty is returning in works by Schuller, Carter, Ligetti, Penderecki and others, and in the popular field, "Rock" has added a new dimension in excitement and color as the musical scene. But the music heard last Thursday was old, and tired. Perhaps, "stillborn" would be a better word.

— Arno Safran

MUSIC GROUP TO MEET

At Woolworth Center, The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will offer an informal evening of Handel's "Alexander's Feast" at a meeting at 5 p.m., Sunday, in Princeton University's Woolworth Center.

The program, conducted by J. Merrill Knapp, will include soloists Laura Hayes, June Tipton, Rufus Hallmark and Norman Rubin. Anyone interested in participating in the informal recital should contact Mrs. M. B. Gottlieb, 921-7214. There will be a small refreshment charge.

RECITAL TO BE HELD

At Princeton University, The Nassau Serenade and Divertimento Society will appear in concert at 8:30 p.m., Friday, in Room 101 of the Woolworth Center, on the Princeton campus.

The student group will offer a free, public program including classical works by Haydn, and Mozart. Joshua Rifkin will conduct the Notturmo in C Major by Haydn, and the Serenade in E Flat Major K.375, by Mozart.

SCHIEDE TO SPEAK

On B Minor Mass, William H. Scheide, authority on Johann Sebastian Bach, will speak on "Why Was the Bach B Minor Mass Composed?" next Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Westminster Choir College Playhouse on the college campus.
The talk is free, and open to the public. Dr. Scheide will speak again on March 18 on Bach's Unknown ("Main Work") and on April 8 ("Bach's Suggestions on Using His Work.")

Dr. Scheide is founder and director of the Bach Aria Group which he launched in 1916. He has been an intensive student of Bach for many years, concentrating on the arias of the church cantatas.
Dr. Scheide is also an elder church and a trustee of Westminster Choir College. He is the author of "Johann Sebastian Bach as a Biblical Interpreter."

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

For March Program, The Princeton Music Club will meet at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 12, at the home of its president, Mrs. W. D. Hayes, 129 Broadmead, in a monthly program featuring the works of six composers.

Jane Siegel, flutist, and Jane Tipton, pianist, will play Bach's Sonata No. 3, followed by six songs from Schumann's "Liederkreis," and selections from Handel and Purcell, sung by Susan Robinson.

George and Ruth Sanborn will close the program with a Poulenc Sonata for piano, four hands, and Bizet's "Jeux d'enfants."

CONCERT SCHEDULED

To Honor Ulysses Kay, A New Jersey composer, Ulysses Kay, will become the first recipient on award by the New Jersey State Council for the Arts in ceremonies planned for McCarter Theatre on Monday, March 24.
To mark the occasion, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra will present the New Jersey premiere of his latest composition, "Scherzi Musicali." Mr. Kay will be honored during the evening by the State Council for the Arts "for his outstanding ing creativity in the field of music."

A resident of Englewood, Mr. Kay has been described by The New York Times as "a musician of an unmistakable gifts." His numerous compositions, ranging from chamber music to opera, have won him awards in this country and abroad.

For the past 16 years, he has been a consultant for Broadcast Music, Inc. in New York. He has served as visiting professor of music at Boston University and the University of California at Los Angeles, and is currently Professor of Music at Herbert H. Lehman College of the City University of New York.

MUSIC IN MARCH

At High School, Three evenings of music will be presented in March by the instrumental music department at Princeton High School.

Next Tuesday at 8 in the auditorium of the John Witherspoon School, the Princeton High School Orchestra, led by Sylvan Friedman, will give the first of the pair of concerts.

David Sparr will be featured soloist in the orchestra's program. The principal work of the evening will be the first movement of the Schubert C Major Symphony ("The Great") and the orchestra will also play connections with the contemporary Czech-American composer Václav Nelybel.
On Thursday, March 27, Walter Horner will lead the combined Symphonietta and Concert Bands, again at 8 p.m. in the John Witherspoon auditorium.

1962, had a somewhat longer career in study, teaching and experience with many distinguished awards and grants numbering among them two Guggenheims, one National Institute of Arts and Letters Award and a current grant from Penn State for the execution of a new series of color prints. He has had more than 75 one-man shows in museums and galleries in the United States, France and Mexico, and his work is in 75 permanent collections in this country alone.

Speaking of Mr. Altman's work in 1967, the editor of "American Artist" wrote, "At a time when most celebrated and sought-after printmakers have abandoned recognizable form to deal almost exclusively with mixed media and... workshop experimentalism, the figurative prints of Harold Altman present a refreshing contrast." We would extend the statement to include his wife's work which, in this case, in combination with her husband's, makes not an exciting show, but one indeed technically interesting and "refreshing."

CHILDREN'S ART ON VIEW

At Studio on the Canal, A children's exhibit of paintings from the Saturday morning creative painting workshop at the Studio on the Canal will open this Saturday and continue through March 15.
Seven children, aged 11 to 13, in their first term of the course produced the work, under the direction of Maureen Vidler. The studio is open daily, including Sunday from 2 to 5.

Sports In Princeton

with one 6-9 operative matched against both Thorndore and Hummer.

Scoring balance, poise and a tough schedule which has seen it win 22 of 26 games will all stand in St. John's favor. Princeton hopes to be based on a good game from Gerd Petrie, continuation of the fine defensive play the Tigers have shown—particularly in committing a few fouls while executing tight man to man guarding—and belief that the team has just recently hit its peak.

The Tigers have one thing going for them, albeit somewhat incidental, last time the two teams met in NCAA competition, it was the consolation game of the quarter-finals in 1966. Princeton won, 78 to 58.

NCAA announcement that the Tigers would travel all the way to North Carolina to play their first tournament game was met by howls of protest that normal policy called for "keeping the game near the campuses of the competing colleges." No valid reason for the decision to send Princeton and St. John's hundreds of miles away was ever given, but NCAA officials and eastern colleges—particularly the Ivy League—have rarely seen eye to eye on matters of mutual interest.

Actually, of course, Princetonians who would not have at all decided to see the games in person are better off. NHC's decision to televise is based on the availability of an attractive doubleheader to offer on a Saturday afternoon. Had the Tigers gone to Kingston, R.I., for a single game at night, there would have been no television.

SOMETHING old or new to a Princeton Town Topics Classified. Call 267-2284.

ONE THAT CAME THE TIGERS' WAY: Herman Stevenson (left) won his beat in the 60-yard dash Saturday as Big Three track meet marked dedication of Jadwin Gymnasium. However, Yale finished 1-2-3 in finish of this event and went on to upset Harvard, 52 to 51. Tigers were a distant third with 34, but placed second in the freshman meet with 47 over last-place Yale's 28. Harvard's 51 points won freshman meet as some 4,000 watched the athletic activity and the dedication ceremonies.

BALANCE TELLS THE TALE: In Columbia, Cornell Games, the victors over Columbia (60-59) on Friday and Cornell (74-64) the following night were achieved by the Tigers' ability to score with steady consistency despite the fact that their top producers experienced occasional cold streaks. Princeton success depended, too, on fine foul shooting—both Columbia and Cornell made more field goals than the Orange and Black but the victors' accuracy on free throws made the difference.

Against the Lions, Petrie contributed only ten of his 27 points in the first half but John Hummer thrived in 14. At Ithaca, the high man was neither Petrie nor Hummer but Captain Chris Thorndore, who accounted for 23. A major asset, too, was the ability of Bill Sicker to get into double figures both nights with 10 against Columbia and 11 against Cornell.

Showing a deficit of four field goals against the Lions (24-30), Princeton converted 20 of 23 free throws to 11 of 20 for the losers. At Thaca, Cornell got 25 baskets to 24 for Princeton but the Tigers added 21 foul shots while the Red was making only 14.

Defensively, the new champions again dominated the action. Hummer cut McMillian all the way down to 11 points—a scant 50% of his season long average—and Ed Stancik again did a workmanlike job on Roger Walaszek, whose scoring so often supplemented that of McMillian and Hayward Dutton in Columbia's frequent victories.

Early Lion Lead Vanishes. Columbia took an early lead Friday night, increasing it to as much as nine points (25-16) during the latter part of the first half but fine work by Hummer and the start of Petrie's surge erased the margin. With two seconds left, Petrie's jumper gave the visitors a 33-32 advantage and a fine mental edge to take into the dressing room.

The Tigers came back to build up as much as a ten-point margin during the second half, but a desperate surge by the Lions all but made it disappear. With 1:48 to go, it was 56-55 Princeton.

Sicker was fouled, and converted both in a 1-and-1 situation. The Lions drove down again, narrowed the margin to 58-57 with less than a minute to go, and then took a time out.

The strategy again called for a foul on Sicker, but the contact was so solid that an intentional violation was called and the Tiger sophomore was given two shots. When he made both, the Lions had time only for an untested basket before Petrie let the final three seconds run out while he held the ball outside the Princeton baseline.

The victory over Cornell was cut from much the same pattern as the earlier triumph over the Ithacans here, the night after Princeton had first beaten Columbia. There was a visible let-down, big Walt Esdaile of the Red shot eight points over his 15-point average, but the Tigers took sufficient charge to guarantee the victory.

It was 31-28, Princeton, at the intermission, and the Tigers, while not in complete control until the final two minutes, were never in serious trouble. They shot only 44% in the game, a fine 54% against Columbia—but the defense held Cornell to 39%.

YALE WINS TRACK MEET Harvard upset by 1 Point. Yale University's track team enjoyed Saturday's dedication of Jadwin Gymnasium fully as much as the 4,000 Princetonians who were on hand for the long-awaited occasion.

The Elis broke a string of seven straight Harvard victories in the annual Big Three indoor meet when they edged highly-favored Harvard, 52 to 51. The best team, which can now look forward to improved performances with the completion of the $6.5 million facility, was third.

It was a fabulous performance by distance runner Frank Shorter of Yale that spilled the pot of beans for John Harvard. Shorter won both the mile and two mile and broke meet records in both events.

He was clocked in a fine 4:06.4 for the mile, clipping three-fifths of a second of the meet mark that had stood for seven years. In the two-mile, he defeated Harvard's favored Wayne Hardin in 8:51.4, a time that was nearly six seconds below the best previous HYP performance.

The Tigers' biggest moment came when they won the mile relay, one of the meet's most spectacular events. The time of 3:17.7 was an indoor Princeton mark.

Princeton also placed first in the long jump and the pole vault, while a loss of 52 feet, 1 inch in the shot set a Princeton record but also reflected the Tigers' relative strength when it was good only for third place.

behind two Harvard entries. The Tigers lacked overall depth, but now that they have Jadwin, that will begin to develop.

SKATERS LOSE TWO Including First Ever to Penn. A 7-6 overtime loss to Pennsylvania and a 5-1 defeat by champion Cornell marked the final week of the season for the Princeton hockey team. The defeat by the last-place Quakers was the first for the Tigers in the athletic rivalry between the two colleges. Ability to erase two-goal deficits twice was not enough to salvage the contest for the incumbent Orange and Black Penn led, 2-0, at the end of the first period, Princeton drew even but the Ivy lead again, 4-2, by the end of the second round.

The Tigers seemingly had matters under control when a 15-minute outburst produced four goals in 14 minutes. Their 6-1 lead with six minutes to go was inadequate, however, Penn drew even on two power plays and winning in sudden-death overtime on a break-away with only 21 seconds gone.

Sophomore Jack McNab scored twice for the Tigers but their defense was wholly inadequate. For the first time in two years, goalie Middy Tugman played poorly in the nets.

McNab got the Tigers' lone goal in the 5-1 defeat at Ithaca Saturday. Cornell, which had wrapped up its fourth straight Ivy title earlier in the week with a 6-3 triumph over Harvard, took charge early and wrote its 22nd victory in 21 games into the book. Only RPI (The Princeton blanked, 4-0), managed to upset the Red.

The Tigers finished with five victories (Providence, Yale, Penn, Dartmouth, in addition to RPI) against 10 defeats. Their problems appear likely to continue, some of the sophomores have shown a steady degree of progress but they lose eight seniors and will gain very little from a freshman team that won only three and lost ten. Those who have finished their careers included both starting defensesmen, Bill Ramsey and Randy Evans; John Kutarski, who was used both as a wing and on defense; and forwards Pete Stuckey, Jerry Kearney, and Taylor, Denis Grande and Dick O'Connell.

BROOKS GETS 30

But PHS Loses 21st. It's almost as if the fates were conspiring to bring the Princeton High School basketball team to the lowest depths possible to test its faith.

Friday's meeting with St. Anthony's is a prime example. Down at one point by 19, PHS had huddled back within two points with 4:20 to go. The Little Tigers were in position to overhaul the visitors (4-16) and win their first Mercer County game of the season and their second victory in 22 starts.

But look what happened. At the 4:20 mark, the buzzer sounded and Paul Riddell was waved out of the game with his fifth personal foul. The St. Anthony player converted both shots of a 1-and-1 situation and PHS was down by four. It went on to lose by 61-57.

What had coach Larry Ivan and his staff shaking their fists at the heavens, however, was that the 6-5 Riddell, the leading PHS jersey player, was making his first start on the varsity this year and doing a fine job (11 points and 10 fouls trolled the boards), actually had accumulated only three persinals at the time and should have been allowed to stay in the game.

"Someone made a mistake," said Ivan. "Riddell was charged with a wrong foul somewhere. My statistician, myself, Mr. Ware and Mr. Freeman all had Paul with three fouls." "We were stunned when the buzzer went off and he had to leave."

Fate number two concerned Billy Brooks. Billy, by far the most accurate shooter among the Little Tigers, was having his best night of the season. "The shots he was making were unbelievable," said Ivan. "He could have had 40."

But Brooks never reached 40 because for more than half of the third quarter, Ivan had to keep him in the gym. "He was sick," said Ivan. "He looked like he was going to pass out, so we had to take him out."

Brooks, who had complained of stomach cramps, was able to resume in the final period, but Ivan felt the loss of his scoring punch in the four and one-half minutes he sat on the bench and the loss of Riddell for the final four minutes were critical — the difference between winning and losing.

Sweeney Sees Action. In addition to Riddell, Ivan needed reserve Bob Sweeney into the lineup for the first time. "We had made the decision in December to use Riddell and Sweeney in the last two games, no matter what," said Ivan. "Sweeney (5 points) helped us in there a lot," he said. "Both will be a big plus."

Aside from Brooks and Riddell, no other Little Tiger hit double figures. Ivan, however, cited the play of Leighton Newlan, especially on defense. "He did an outstanding job," Newlan scored six points.

For the Iron Mike's, the Hardiman brothers were instrumental in victory. Dennis tallied 21 points and Kevin, 10. Steve Mazzioko added 15.

The Little Tigers outscored St. Anthony's from the floor by one basket but missed 15 foul shots. "That hurts in a close ball game," said Ivan.

NU REACHES FINAL

In Class B Prep Tournaments, a torrid shooting performance against Pennington School, which saw Hun defeat the Red Riders, 101-86, the Hun School basketball team earned a berth in the finals of the Class B Prep School Tourney.

The final was scheduled for this Wednesday at the Rutgers Prep School court against Pinegrove. Pingry (10-7) advanced to the championship game with a 50-47 victory over Delbarton.

Against Pennington, Hun hit the eyes out of the basket, 12 for 18 after the first eight minutes of play to take a 21-16 first quarter lead.

But hot as Hun was, it was unable to pull away from its tenacious neighbor. Frank Andrews, former Princeton Day School standout, and Trenton's Bob Turner saw to that. Together they combined for 58 points, and teammate Bob Young tossed in 18 more.

Hun, for its part, had four of its starters hit 20 or more: Mike Maguire (25), Don Silver (22), Nat Williams (21), Herman Secker (20). Overall, Hun shot at a 50 percent rate — 43 for 85 — and had a big edge in rebounding.

The win was Hun's 14th in 16 starts and its third victory over Pennington this season.

Interest centered around the question whether or not it marked the first time a Hun basketball team had scored 100 points — a question that will probably remain unanswered because all of the school's athletic records were lost in a fire a few weeks ago. Fittingly, captain Don Silverman had the honor of making the 100th point, when with 30 seconds to go, he tapped in a rebound of his own missed shot.

HEALTH HINTS

By George H. Hopkins, D.C. 08540

WHEN YOUR SACROILIAC SLIPS

The sacroiliac, or "sacred arch" is the triangular spinal segment that bears all the weight of the upper body. It is a sensitive and vital spot. The hip bones move with the sacrum, one on either side, by means of the sacroiliac joints.

Sacroiliac slip may occur from overstrain, accident, or a fall. It can occur from a sudden turn of the body when it is off balance. Pain and distressing symptoms occur anywhere from the waist downward when there is a sacroiliac slip. Ordinary treatment, that is rest and taping of a sacroiliac condition, is of no permanent help. Only when the sacrum is restored to its normal position and relationship to the ilium, on the affected side, can the nerve irritation be removed and the pain eliminated.

Doctors of chiropractic are spinal specialists and can usually correct such a condition in short order through judicious manipulation of the lower spine and pelvis. When trouble arises, accidentally or otherwise, in the sacroiliac, your doctor of chiropractic is the one to consult, for he has made a special study of this important articulation and its skillful correction. Chiropractors are educationally prepared and instrumentally equipped to combat sacroiliac trouble through the use of a complete therapy of correction. This is accomplished with gentle manipulation which results in positive correction and, usually, instant relief.
